

FEBRUARY PRAYER GUIDE

First Tuesday Prayer Gathering - Streamed LIVE on February 3

Please join our “First Tuesday Prayer Gathering” on February 3, at 7:00-7:30am Central. We plan to gather online to pray for the Lord’s disciples and for their faithfulness and for the lost.

Luke 11: 1.

Upcoming Mission Trips, Events and Planning

Please pray for:

1. Rescheduling our Colombia mission trip that had to be postponed unexpectedly.
2. The Lord to send more workers to His field at church mission events involving Doulos:
 - Westwood Baptist’s Lift Mission Summit on Jan. 31—Feb. 4.
 - Liberty Park’s Mission Conference on Feb. 15.
 - Shades Mountain’s “Global Impact Catalyst” on Feb. 22—25.
3. Doulos’ staff strategic planning and revitalization meetings on Feb. 15—18.
4. For our partners and us to continue investing the Lord’s blessings in an impactful way.

Matthew 9: 35-37.

Iran

Remember in prayer many Iranians who have turned to Christ and are emboldened to share their faith. Pray for our partners helping and discipling many Iranian refugees. Pray also for the peace of Christ to govern a volatile situation.

1 Timothy 2: 1-4.

Thankfulness for Indian State Court Ruling Allowing More Freedom to Share Bibles and the Gospel

The high court of the state of Uttar Pradesh in northern India recently ruled that “merely distributing Bibles and preaching Christian doctrine, without any allegation of forcible or fraudulent conversion,” are NOT crimes under that state’s 2021 “Prohibition of Unlawful Conversion of Religion Act.” Uttar Pradesh is India’s largest state, with about 250 million residents. Pray that Christians in India would be encouraged to share the Gospel far and wide and that enemies of our Lord would not succeed in alleging coercion or fraudulent inducement by the believers there.

Acts 4: 11-31.

Faith That Feeds

Story from our ministry partner, BigLife/

Justin had been making disciples in Tanzania for over five years. His heart burned with one vision: to see his neighbors come to know Christ. But the journey had been hard.

Ministry support came inconsistently. Raising funds to feed his family while doing Gospel work became a source of ongoing pressure. And though his passion never wavered, the path ahead often felt uncertain.

Then, in 2023, BigLife leaders—Josiah, Leo, and Rawlings—gathered 20 African leaders for training on how to create sustainable disciple-making movements. Justin attended, not knowing his entire perspective was about to shift.

At the training, leaders shared their needs—and others responded. Ideas sparked. Solutions emerged. Farming tips, small business plans, shared wisdom. It reminded Justin of Acts 2, when the early believers “had all things in common.”

Justin looked at what was in his hands. With a bit of savings and help from friends, he purchased chickens and cattle. He used his home as a base and started selling eggs, milk, and chicken in his community.

Soon, he saved enough to open a clothing shop in the city for his sister—a fellow disciple—to run. Two income streams. One mission.

Justin expanded his farm and began supporting disciples in his network. What had once drained him now empowered him.

His vision? To engage his whole island with the Gospel and to empower local believers to do the same—spiritually and practically. He’s now equipping others with livestock, farming tools, and training so they too can sustain their families and ministries. It’s not just ministry. It’s multiplication.

This is a true story. Some details may have been edited to protect identities.
