Join the program today

With our PGA Pro Affiliate Program, we're empowering PGA Professionals to discover new revenue opportunities and connect with their members in exciting ways. During the off-season, when courses may be closed, organizing memorable golf trips can be a game-changer for both income and member engagement.

Taking members on these unique trips not only strengthens club loyalty but also offers a lucrative earning opportunity. On average, PGA Professionals in our program earn upwards of $1,500 per trip by hosting small groups at some of the world's finest golf destinations.

What's in it for you?

Nick Clark, Managing Director of Beyond Golf Tours, shares his perspective on why every PGA Professional should consider leading group trips if they haven't started already.

● Additional income stream

Organizing member trips offers a valuable opportunity to generate extra income through travel, coaching retreats, tournaments, or exclusive golf experiences.

● Foster Client Relationships

Traveling with members fosters stronger, lasting connections. Supporting them on each step of the trip helps turn them into lifelong clients.

● Boost Member Loyalty

Offering travel options strengthens your role as a valued resource for members, building camaraderie and creating memorable experiences that keep members engaged.

● Fund Large Projects

Raising funds through group travel can support larger projects, from new facilities to equipment upgrades, without added financial strain on the club.

● Elevate Your Professional Offerings

Leading golf trips adds a new dimension to your role, enhancing your profile as a PGA Professional and deepening your connection with members.
