

JOIN US FOR A NEIGHBORHOOD GATHERING

To Stand With 100 year-old Redwoods

at 700 McGilvra Blvd E, Seattle

What's Going On?

Join us to stand with this grove of coast redwoods, nearly 100-feet tall and 100 years old.

These redwoods are a roosting spot for eagles and filter runoff into Lake Washington. They sit in an Environmentally Critical Area, yet many are being removed for a retaining wall with no explanation why the wall must cut through these trees.

Please join us in asking the owner to protect this grove.

These are not just any trees. These are Seattle's critical natural infrastructure:

-  The largest redwood grove on private property in Seattle.
-  Seattle's natural defense against extreme heat and climate change.
-  Living filters that protect Lake Washington.

Join Us Sunday

Join us for a neighborhood gathering to stand with the trees and ask the owner to save them.

700 McGilvra Blvd E, Seattle

Sunday, February 22 , at 1 p.m.
