

The Worshipful Company of International Bankers

Terms and conditions of WCIB membership

1. New members will be deemed to have joined the Company after they have paid their one-off joining fee and annual subscription.
2. If a member fails to pay their annual subscription, the Company reserves the right to cancel their membership.
3. The Company reserves the right to cancel a member's event bookings if their annual subscription is outstanding.
4. Members will not use information in the online members' directory to send sales or marketing messages to fellow members.
5. We offer different membership categories to suit various career stages and circumstances. A change of membership status (eg: becoming a Liveryman/woman, a Court Assistant or Warden) will only take effect once the appropriate fee has been paid.
6. Members should contact the Clerk's office if their circumstances change. For example, moving back to the UK from abroad, moving from a full-time degree course into employment etc.
7. Generally, people express an enduring and lifelong commitment toward their Livery Company in the City of London. However, the Membership Committee will review written requests for pausing membership on a case-by-case basis. Instances such as unemployment, maternity or long-term health issues will often be viewed sympathetically. Many of our members are busy, working professionals and therefore, pausing membership because members are too busy to attend events or travelling abroad is not permitted.
8. Members who leave the Company are welcome to rejoin without having to fill in an application form or attend an interview. If they paid their one-off joining fee the first time, they do not have to pay this again.
9. Members are responsible for maintaining the accuracy of their membership details on the CRM database – especially any change of email or postal address.
10. There is the expectation that members will contribute financially to the charitable work of the company, either by card payment, by direct debit or by ad hoc bank transfers. Those who wish to opt out from this should contact finance@internationalbankers.co.uk
