“Chasing points is harder than just trying to win races; it changes the way you drive. This was, by far, the hardest and longest season of my career (to this point),” Tony Stewart confided after capturing the 1994 USAC National Midget title, beating Andy Michner for the crown while simultaneously chasing points and chasing flights from coast-to-coast.

The 23-year-old totaled a dozen victories between the National and Western States Midget schedules. Amazingly, he won back-to-back features on the west coast and the Midwest twice. In June, he won at Ohio’s Limaland Motorsports Park on dirt, then won on pavement the next night at Saugus (Calif.) Speedway. In October, he won on dirt at Ventura (Calif.) Raceway on Saturday night, then won hours later on pavement Sunday afternoon at Winchester (Ind.) Speedway.

Despite coming out with guns blazing early on with four wins before the end of June, Stewart hit a midseason lull and felt that every time he felt he had a chance to pull away, something set him back. But, soon enough, he was back on the rails.

In July at Winchester, Stewart received an assist from Mel and Don Kenyon, who tabbed him to strap into their 3K Racing ride after mechanical problems beset his original Potter ride. Stewart finished seventh to maintain a narrow point lead.

The timing of Stewart’s late-summer resurgence coincided with the start of Michner’s nagging mechanical woes, which reared its head and distanced Michner from the title fight after winning four of ten races during a hot midsummer stretch which culminated in heartbreak when he dropped out while leading September’s Hut 100 at the Terre Haute Action Track.

“We finally got the car figured out in August and had very few problems the rest of the way,” Stewart explained. “When (Andy) broke at Terre Haute, it took the pressure off, and I got to relax and just go racing. That made a big difference.”

Stewart’s second-place result in the Hut 100 virtually closed the book, and the rest was history. He finished with six USAC National Midget wins in the Ralph’s Muffler & Brake Shops Potter V-6 with three each on dirt and pavement, including a runaway win in October’s Sammy Sessions Memorial at Winchester, which practically clinched the title. In addition to posting fast qualifying time on seven occasions, Stewart also won a 10-car, 10-lap, $10,000 Jack’s Tool Rental Race of Champions in August at Indianapolis Raceway Park, while delivering Ralph Potter his second career series entrant title.

“Ralph has been a great influence on me,” Stewart reflected. “He taught me a lot about patience and some other things which don’t necessarily pertain to racing and he always put up with me when I was dejected. Brian (Potter) and Jerry (Riley) worked their tails off at the shop to keep the cars going, and they all pitched in to keep it running at the track.”

Michner notched four scores on his way to runner-up in the standings, including a win in June at IRP during the 5,000th USAC event. Mike Bliss took third in points and claimed a record-breaking $15,250 prize after bagging the victory in August’s Mel Kenyon Classic at IRP. David Bridges, son of 1983 Indianapolis 500 winning co-chief mechanic Mark Bridges, was named series Rookie of the Year. Steve Barth garnered sixth in the standings to earn Most Improved Driver honors.

Arnold Edgar of Greenfield, Ind., the series’ Technical Inspector since 1989, was named Chief Steward of the division starting in 1994. Edgar assumed the role after Jerry Franklin, Chief Steward since 1989, stepped down from the position. Furthermore, a revised point system was introduced in 1994, which established a standard point breakdown for all events regardless of track size as well as instituting bonus points for drivers’ and entrants’ adherence to pre-entry stipulations.

The Copper World Classic, held at Phoenix Int’l Raceway since 1977, became a USAC National Midget event for the first time in 1994 with winner Chuck Gurney taking over as the sixth and final leader of a spectacular 25-lap main event.

Three-time USAC Speedrome Midget champion Ted Hines corralled his only career USAC National Midget win in May’s Night Before the 500 at IRP, just four months after his car owner, Cliff Jacobs, was seriously injured in an accident during January's Hoosier Dome Invitational where a car driven by Chris Simmons veered into the pit area and struck several individuals, resulting in eight injuries and one fatality. Jacobs' resilience resulted in him receiving USAC's Jim Blunk Award.

For the first time in USAC history, no past winners earned starting spots in the 1994 Turkey Night GP at Bakersfield (Calif.) Speedway despite 10 wins being represented between Ron Shuman (8) and Stan Fox (2), who both missed the show. That scenario resulted in a first-time TNGP winner, Jordan Hermansader, which was also his lone USAC National win this night.
