

Kahne is More Than Able

By: Richie Murray

Kasey Kahne's meteoric rise during the 2000 USAC National Midget season came thanks to a dominating performance in which he racked up six wins in 22 starts and finished outside the top-ten just once while placing his name alongside USAC's first National Midget champion, Shorty Templeman, as the second series titlist to hail from the state of Washington.

The amazing part is that Kahne only had four USAC Midget starts prior to 2000. In what was essentially, but not technically, his Rookie season, he took over the number one spot in May and decisively built up a most dominating point lead.

Arriving from the upper northwest with a fair amount of fanfare due to his winged sprint car success, Kahne was pegged as the pilot of a Steve Lewis machine and ultimately delivered his car owner a sixth entrant title, while providing the team's No. 91 car its first and only title. Yet, with all the prosperity and how the season unfolded, Kahne was a bit taken aback.

"The championship wasn't something I expected at the start of the year," Kahne admitted. "I knew, if we had a good year, we'd have a good chance, but it was my first full year in a midget. I just hoped to run up front and finish well in the points."

Despite his relatively young age and lack of midget experience, Kahne's potential was evident to Lewis. Kahne was soon in the enviable position of being able to match his talent with the best equipment in the sport. Teamed with Dave Darland, and veteran car builder Bob East calling the shots, Kahne knew he was in great hands, and it gave him added confidence.

"I felt pretty secure by midseason when we had a good lead," Kahne explained. "We had been so fortunate to not have too many problems, and I knew if we could continue, we'd be okay. As good as their program is, I felt pretty good."

The rapid success of the kid, who possessed a quiet demeanor and a loud right foot, caused some to wonder if he could maintain his ascension. True to form, Kahne never flinched, and retained his place atop the standings throughout, 266 points ahead of runner-up Jay Drake, the most lopsided margin between first and second since Rich Vogler (291) in 1988.

Kahne's feature victories included a number of marquee events, namely May's Night Before the 500 at Indianapolis Raceway Park, August's Belleville (Kan.) Midget Nationals and September's 4-Crown Nationals at Ohio's Eldora Speedway.

Drake got off to a blistering start, winning three of the first six for owner Ralph Potter. Amid one of his team's finest seasons and his driver standing second in points, Potter abruptly retired in July, citing increasing costs. Drake and Potter had won at Indiana's Anderson Speedway and Salem Speedway, as well as the Heartland Park Topeka (Kan.) paperclip-shaped track, which was literally two drag strips, covered in dirt, connected by a pair of turns. Post-Potter, Drake quickly found work with Keith Kunz Motorsports and won thrice, including September's Hut 100 at Lincoln Park Speedway.

Aaron Fike posted 11 top-tens on his way to sixth in the standings and Rookie of the Year honors. Fike followed his older brother A.J. Fike's footsteps in becoming the first siblings to achieve the feat with the series. Michael Lewis finished fourth in points and edged Kahne to win a photo finish in June at Anderson while claiming Most Improved Driver honors. The Jim Blunk Award for contributions to USAC Midget racing was presented to the Belleville High Banks Race Committee.

The season-opening and season closing events were both won by Tony Stewart. Stewart's two wins, in the Copper World Classic at Phoenix International Raceway and the Turkey Night Grand Prix at Irwindale (Calif.) Speedway, came in his only two starts of 2000. Tracy Hines also cracked the win column in one of the longest races in series history, at Kokomo (Ind.) Speedway, which was interrupted after two laps in early July with the final 28 laps being completed seven weeks later in late August. Jerry Coons Jr. posted a final lap victory over Kahne in the return to Hartford (Mich.) Speedway Park in July, delivering Keith Kunz Motorsports' second USAC National Midget win, the team's first since 1992, eight years earlier.

What are the odds? On each night of the Belleville Midget Nationals, the first driver to draw was also the recipient of the number one pill. Darland was up first and drew #1 on night one. His teammate, Kahne, was the first to draw a night later. He also pulled the #1. Ricky Shelton was the first to draw on night three. You guessed it. He also drew #1.

Eleven winners were crowned in 2000, including first-timers Kahne, Lewis, Dane Carter and Aaron Pollock. Carter and Pollock both scored wins at Winchester (Ind.) Speedway, Carter setting a track record and executing a last lap banzai pass of Mark Boice in August and Pollock with a stunningly dominant performance in October's Sammy Sessions Memorial.
