

2007 USAC NATIONAL MIDGET SEASON REVIEW

Rack Another for Coons

By: Richie Murray

After signifying his place among the champions of USAC National Midget racing the year prior, Jerry Coons Jr. cemented his legacy as one of the sport's all-time greats in 2007 by capturing his second consecutive series title while also furnishing a fourth entrant title to the Wilke-PAK Motorsports team after previous such accolades in 1984, 1988 and 2005.

Unlike the 2006 season, where Coons clung, scratched and clawed his way to the title, in 2007, the 35-year-old Arizonian twisted the knife in his competition's hopes once he took hold of the point lead at the exact midpoint of the season. He trailed Darren Hagen, Bobby East and Ricky Stenhouse Jr. for the first 13 events, took over in race 14, then led the last 13.

Although his first victory lane celebration didn't arrive until late-July, Coons sudden spurt marked a sea change at the top as he commanded both nights of the Belleville (Kan.) Midget Nationals, taking Friday's prelim as well as Saturday's 40-lap finale for the second time in the past three seasons. While the ensuing event on the similarly banked, but paved, Salem (Ind.) Speedway didn't present Coons with a win, it might as well have been lauded as such as his fourth place run, coupled with Hagen's crash and subsequent 14th place result, made Coons the benefactor as well as the new series point leader.

In the next race out, Coons put the No. 11 back in the column for the third time of the year during the USAC Indiana Midget Week opener – the series' first trip to Kamp Motor Speedway (née Henry's Speedway) since 1977 – which was highlighted during the intermission by a gigantic car-eating, flame-throwing, mechanical dinosaur. Along the way, he became the first driver to win both IMW and the USAC National Midget title in the same season. That's Coons. Not the dinosaur.

With two more triumphs in late-August near Wilke-PAK's Wisconsin home at Angell Park Speedway and the Dodge County Fairgrounds, Coons procured a 111-point cushion which all but ended the discussion, finishing with a 71-point edge.

It took seven races before the first multi-time winning driver emerged, the first of which was Rookie of the Year Ricky Stenhouse Jr., who was plugged into the Tony Stewart Racing ride when the team's primary driver, Tracy Hines, suffered a fractured pelvis, fractured left femur and dislocated right knee in an April motorcycle crash. Hines returned in time for the final two races out west but was forced to watch on crutches as Stenhouse tallied five feature victories and finished third in the standings in what was the most successful season, in terms of wins by a Rookie, since Danny Caruthers in 1971.

Stenhouse picked off one win a month, starting with the first of the five in May at Indiana's Tri-State Speedway, followed in succession at Iowa's Knoxville Raceway in June, at Nebraska's Junction Motor Speedway in July, at Kokomo (Ind.) Speedway in August and during the 4-Crown Nationals at his car owner's own Eldora Speedway in Ohio. Stenhouse held the point lead for one single event before giving way to Darren Hagen in between the two nights at Belleville in late July.

Hagen led the standings for all but two races during the first half of the season, winning once at Knoxville in June as he tracked down Don Droud Jr. with three laps to go, then nearly pulled off the double later that night until blowing a right rear tire with four laps remaining while running second to Stenhouse. Hagen ultimately finished as the series runner-up.

Knoxville was among several events prioritizing a new race format for 2007. No qualifying was held for 12 of the first 13 dirt track events, instead utilizing a draw to determine heat race lineups and a passing points system to calculate which drivers transferred from the prelims to the feature. The series reverted to the qualifying format by late August's events.

For the first time since 1993, the opener wasn't held at Phoenix International Raceway. Instead, the race moved down the street to neighboring Manzanita Speedway. There, insanity ensued when race leader Hines ran out of fuel while exiting turn four on the final lap. Kruseman passed by for the win while Hines was disqualified for being light at the scales.

Kruseman was one of four first-time winners along with Stenhouse, Levi Jones at Wisconsin's Plymouth Dirt Track and Michael Pickens at Angell Park, who led Brad Mosen in the first one-two sweep for New Zealand drivers in series history.

Dave Darland secured fourth in the standings and notched two victories in July at Ohio's Mansfield Motorsports Park for his first asphalt win with the series since 2002, along with the season-closing Turkey Night Grand Prix at Irwindale (Calif.) Speedway, which included the largest TNGP field ever at 35 cars and was contested for the first time at a distance of 98 laps in honor of longtime event promoter J.C. Agajanian, whose cars regularly sported the No. 98 throughout the decades.

Kevin Swindell won twice and finished sixth in the standings to earn the Most Improved Driver award, the last time it was presented as a singular series award before being consolidated and into one award encompassing all three USAC national series. Toyota Racing Development was the honoree of the Jim Blunk Memorial Award for their commitment to the series.
