

2013 USAC NATIONAL MIDGET SEASON REVIEW

The Bell Tolls & Hagen Does it Again

By: Richie Murray

Few had ever approached the success that Christopher Bell attained in his first full year of USAC National Midget racing in 2013. Even fewer could've predicted the domination he'd set forth in his freshman season. However, the mixture of skill, calm and coolness, plus a perennial contending team, resulted in one of the finest seasons in history, Rookie or otherwise.

Entering the year, the 18-year-old Bell possessed four series starts for car owners Darren Ruston and Mark Lowe in 2011 and 2012, which caught the notice of Keith Kunz/Curb-Agajanian Motorsports, and the pairing took on an all-out assault in 2013, running roughshod in a 117-point romp, boosted by the tune of a series-leading seven feature wins, 17 top-fives and 24 top-tens in 26 starts, decimating the field to become the first Rookie champ since Danny Caruthers 42 years earlier.

The series format was once again separated into divisions, yet a smidge different than in past years. The dirt and pavement portions of the schedule were entirely exclusive with independent dirt and pavement champions. Twenty races comprised the dirt and eight on pavement with Darren Hagen latching up the pavement crown for the fourth consecutive campaign.

On dirt, the first four races of the season were hit by Mother Nature, pushing the start of the season to June! Bell had no qualms about it and quickly went to work during USAC Indiana Midget Week, prevailing in a pair of bareknuckle brawls with teammate Larson whom he fended off on the final lap to win at Lincoln Park Speedway, then kept him at bay once more in the mini-series finale at Kokomo Speedway to become the undisputed champion of IMW in his Bullet/Speedway Toyota.

A victory in the series debut at Kansas' Solomon Valley Raceway followed for Bell in July, then he led a KKM podium sweep ahead of teammates Rico Abreu and Tanner Thorson in August during the return of the Belleville (Kan.) Midget Nationals to the schedule for the first time in four years. Bell translated his prowess to the pavement won again six days later at Indiana's Illiana Motor Speedway. A sterling performance at Illinois' Tri-City Speedway's Gold Crown Nationals in October resulted in another major win, then he carried the magic into November to collect the Western World at Arizona's Canyon Speedway Park, presenting Keith Kunz his fifth entrant title and the third straight for Mike Curb and Cary Agajanian.

Hagen split four victories between pavement and dirt. He wired May's Night Before the 500 at Lucas Oil Raceway following a lengthy rain-delay, then came out on top of a spirited slider fest with Bell in July at Illinois' Belle-Clair Speedway. Knotted up with Hines in the pavement points entering October's finale at Ohio's Columbus Speedway, the two shared the front row, but Hagen got the jump, the win and the title while Hines finished second, one spot behind in the race and in the championship. Hagen and RFMS Racing split shortly after with Hagen joining Shane Hmiel's team, and thusly, were victorious in their second start together on night two of the Western World to finish third in the final dirt points.

Bryan Clauson won five en route to a runner-up result in the dirt standings. In June, he scored at Bloomington Speedway, and in July at Belle-Clair, he used a slide job on Jerry Coons Jr. with two laps remaining to secure the lead and the win. His success flowed into August with a victory at Wisconsin's Angell Park Speedway and into October on the second night of the Gold Crown before belting out a monumental triumph in November's Western World where he denied Hagen a repeat performance by pulling a last lap pass out of his bag of tricks to move into the top-10 in all-time series wins.

Bell and Rico Abreu were the lone first-time series winners in 2013. Abreu finished fifth in the standings thanks to four wins, erasing past heartbreak to win at Angell Park in June while a Belleville Nationals prelim celebration ensued in August.

His fearless style put him back in victory lane on the series' only other half-mile dirt oval, in September, during the 4-Crown Nationals at Ohio's Eldora Speedway before powering on to win number four in the Gold Crown opener at Tri-City.

Hines was the only driver not named Bell to lead the dirt points, briefly controlling the lead following the season opener. However, both of his wins came on pavement, in June on the mile at Colorado's Pikes Peak International Raceway when he stole the win from Kyle Hamilton who ran out of fuel while leading and second running Hagen became blocked. Hines passed both and led only the final two laps, then swept the Rich Vogler Classic at LOR by repelling a late surge from Larson.

Larson notched wins at both the pavement and dirt openers, clasp February's debut visit to Florida's New Smyrna Speedway which ran his winning streak to four dating back to last season, marking the longest winning streak in the series since Dave Darland in 2003. Larson's June tally at Gas City was most spectacular as he topped his final corner victory over Hines by flipping his car during celebratory post-race donuts. Bobby Santos completed night two at New Smyrna with the second RW Motorsports victory in as many nights. Zach Daum charged from eighth to second, then scooted under Abreu with three laps to go and capture Lawrenceburg Speedway in June. Hamilton found redemption from Pikes Peak by the time the series made it to August where he repeated his victory from the year before at Illinois' Grundy County Speedway.

Dave Darland added to his legacy and joined select company in the season-ending Turkey Night Grand Prix at Perris (Calif.) Auto Speedway after leader Damion Gardner lost a left rear wheel with four laps to go to. Darland led the remainder of the laps to join Mel Kenyon and Stan Fox as the only drivers to win the Thanksgiving race on both dirt and pavement.

A new format was devised for all pavement events, using "Scramble" races to determine the feature lineup. The scramble lineup was inverted based on qualifying results, with the number of cars inverted based on a randomly drawn number.

The finish of each scramble ultimately determined the starting order of the feature event. Scramble one finishers lined up in the order of their finish on the inside rows of the feature while scramble two finishers occupied the outside rows.
