

2012 USAC NATIONAL MIDGET SEASON REVIEW

Three Prongs for Hagen

By: Richie Murray

Drivers have long aspired to reach the pinnacle of a USAC Triple Crown season, a process that involves winning all three USAC National series driving titles within the same year. Darren Hagen pulled off the one-of-a-kind feat of achieving a USAC National Midget Triple Crown in 2012 by capturing the overall, pavement and dirt titles all in one fell swoop.

It was the first, and perhaps the one and only time that the series layout involved three separate titles. The two previous years featured a split overall and pavement champion with Hagen wearing the pavement crown in both 2010 and 2011 while coming up just short on the overall side of the equation each season. The combined dirt and pavement schedules encompassed the entirety of the 23-race schedule for 2012 with eight on the asphalt and 15 on the soil.

Hagen went ahead and corralled all three titles behind the wheel of the RFMS Racing, Liberty Village Esslinger while divvying up his four triumphs, two on pavement and two on dirt. He was victorious his second time out at North Carolina's Ace Speedway and, in June, became the king of USAC Indiana Midget Week as a two-time victor, winning the opener at Gas City for a second-straight year. At Lawrenceburg, he used three late cautions to his advantage, then took the lead off turn two from Alex Bright on the white flag. Hagen reigned in the final IMW standings, winning the title by 44 over Tracy Hines.

Plymouth (Ind.) Speedway was pegged as the first facility to host a dirt and pavement race on the same weekend. Hagen edged Kyle Hamilton in a photo finish on the 3/8-mile paved oval amid temperatures hovering around 100° Fahrenheit. The following night's debut on the dirt oval built inside the paved track was called off due to the brutal heat. Hagen rose to the top of the overall points by early May and his margin of 201 at the finish line was the most since Bobby East in 2004.

The Keith Kunz/Curb-Agajanian Motorsports No. 71 used five different drivers to collect the entrant championship by 75 points over RFMS. Utilizing the driving abilities of Kyle Larson, Ryan Bernal, Shane Cottle, Tanner Swanson and Bryan Clauson, the car finished all 22 of its starts inside the top-10 with all five drivers earning at least one top-five finish at some point during the season in that ride along with five feature wins – Larson with five and Clauson with a single.

Larson won a season-high six times with 10 of his 15 starts resulting in top-two finishes. Despite missing eight races, he still finished fifth in overall points. He won in May at Dodge City (Kan.) Raceway Park, and in June, repelled a last lap slide job from teammate Clauson to win at Kokomo Speedway. In September at Eldora, he grabbed his fourth-straight 4-Crown Nationals victory, second in the midget, as his engine blowing as he exited turn four to take the chRABed flag. Hunter Schuerenberg substituted for Larson during Eldora's hot laps and qualifying sessions while Larson was on a plane en route to the track after winning that afternoon's NASCAR K & N Pro Series East race at New Hampshire Motor Speedway.

The run of Larson was white hot as he became the second driver in series history to win the final three events of the season (Billy Boat in 1995). After finishing upside-down the year before, Larson came out on top of October's Gold Crown Nationals at Illinois' Tri-City Speedway, as well as November's Western Classic at Arizona's Canyon Speedway Park and for the final time of 2012 at the Turkey Night G.P. at Perris (Calif.) Auto Speedway, held on dirt for the first time since 1998.

Tracy Hines finished second in points for the fifth time in his career on the strength of four victories. After missing the dirt opener in May to attend the funeral of longtime supporter Dave Calderwood, Hines arrived the next night at Dodge City to capture an emotional victory. In May's Night Before the 500 at Lucas Oil Raceway, Hines made a last-ditch surge, exiting turn four to do what so many had been unable to do – beat Larson. In July, Hines became LOR's winningest USAC driver with his 13th score, then fended off Larson's slide job on the final circuit to win October's Gold Crown opener at Tri-City.

Clauson took two wins with him to a third-place finish in the standings with a sweep of Lincoln Park Speedway in June and a comfort cruise in July at Wisconsin's Angell Park Speedway. Bobby East was the series' first point leader by taking March's opener at Ace before Mario Clouser took hold of the lead and stood atop the points for a month early in the year.

Brady Bacon shot past Jerry Coons Jr.'s wounded machine, victim of a broken suspension piece on the left rear, with less than two laps to go to win June's Hut 100 at Indiana's Tri-State Speedway. After two nights of engine failures to start IMW, Levi Jones and team marched to victory at Bloomington Speedway. Bobby Santos was the last of five different leaders in his winning performance in June at Iowa Speedway, his third score there over the past four years. Caleb Armstrong returned to the win column in June at Ohio's Toledo Speedway while Kyle Hamilton became the series' only first-time winner in June at Grundy County Speedway in Illinois. In August at Angell Park, Brad Kuhn overtook Clauson on the final lap to win Corn Fest by .019 second. Rico Abreu, seventh in the standings, was named Rookie of the Year. Longtime USAC competitor Jason McCord assumed the role of competition director for the series starting in 2012.

East Wires Night 1 of The Real Deal at Ace Speedway

Altamahaw, NC.....Bobby East took off from his pole position and dominated Friday night's 30-lap USAC MOPAR National Midget Main Event to kick off "The Real Deal" Salute to Shane Hmiel at Ace Speedway, along with the 2012 season. East led throughout and stretched to a 3.786-second margin of victory on the 19-lap green-flag run to the finish in his Klatt Motorsports Classic Car Sales – East Enterprises Beast/Chevy #4.

"It just feels great to win this one. I really love this track – it's a fun place that is like what I grew up doing. I'm proud to win this Shane Hmiel race and really happy for our supporters, especially this new Kistler Chevy," East said from the front stretch.

East's early lead was erased by a lap-12 caution for Rico Abreu, who spun in turn two. From there, East pulled away and disposed of lapped cars as teammates Bobby Santos and Mario Clouser moved into the top-three while front-runner Levi Roberts succumbed to problems with a hanging throttle and related brake issues late in the race.

Santos came home second in the RW Motorsports – Fontana Automotive Beast/Fontana #17, while Clouser finished third in the #27 after establishing a track record at 14.190 seconds.

"The racing was actually better than I expected. This is a good start for RW Motorsports, and I have to thank this whole team for the hard work getting our cars ready for this weekend," said Santos. Clouser concurred, and added, "This place is really tricky. I really had no brakes or tires left at the end. But this was a great start with this team – I'm really looking forward to running all season with them and running up front all year."

Darren Hagen, who won the USAC Pavement Midget championship in 2011, finished fourth in the RFMS Racing – Liberty Village Beast/Esslinger #3, and 2011 National Midget "Rookie of the Year" Kyle Larson rounded out the top-five in the Keith Kunz Motorsports – Toyota TRD Beast/Speedway Toyota #71.

Hagen Handles Finale of The Real Deal at Ace Speedway

Altamahaw, NC.....Darren Hagen led throughout in Saturday's 30-lap USAC Mopar National Midget Main Event as Ace Speedway concluded their Salute to Shane Hmiel with "The Real Deal." Hagen's biggest threat came in the form of a lengthy red flag on lap 11 to clean up fluid from a puncture in the oil tank of Nick Drake, who was running fifth at the time, but the Riverside, Calif. driver inched away over the final few laps in his RFMS Racing – Liberty Village Beast/Esslinger #3.

"Tanner (Swanson, his teammate) found something in the heat – we tried something with him and that helped. It's cool to win this one named after "The Real Deal" Shane Hmiel. It's a testament to the work these guys put in," Hagen said of his dominating performance.

Mario Clouser, off his career-best finish of third on Friday, stayed with Hagen through the middle portion of the race, but the Auburn, Ill. driver could not keep up with Hagen's pace. He held on for second in the RW Motorsports – Fontana Automotive Beast/Fontana #27.

"I can't complain. I'd have liked to see it go green the whole way, and we might have been able to challenge him, but they were able to adjust under the red, and we didn't really want to change anything. It's an awesome way to start the season, with two of the best nights of my career," Clouser said.

A battle between cousins developed for the third spot as Caleb Armstrong locked down the third spot in the C & A Motorsports – Syngenta Seed Beast/Toyota #7c. Dalton Armstrong was right behind him in the C & A Motorsports – EverFi Beast/Toyota #7A. Friday night's winner and Saturday night's fast qualifier Bobby East rounded out the top-five in his Klatt Motorsports – East Enterprises Beast/Chevy #4.
