

1990 USAC NATIONAL SPRINT CAR REVIEW

Steve Butler of Kokomo, Indiana became the first four-time champion in USAC National Sprint Car history in 1990, winning the Loctite/Crestliner Vans championship in convincing fashion.

Butler finished the season in the Dynamics, Inc./Hoffman Auto Racing machine after driving the Aristocrat Products Racing Team machine during the first half of the campaign.

Leading the standings for most of the season, Butler scored a pair of wins in Missouri and at Indiana's Winchester Speedway. His first Winchester triumph was broadcast nationally on ESPN, which aired several series events during the year.

The 1990 season was a tremendous success as the expanded schedule of events included both paved and dirt tracks, winged and non-winged races.

The tragic fatal crash of two-time USAC National Sprint Car champion Rich Vogler at Salem Speedway in July cast a shadow over the entire year, but the memories he gave us all will be cherished forever. It seems somehow fitting that his final race is included in his victory column.

Jack Hewitt's eight feature wins were tops among series competitors and he strung together three straight in July. His wins included the $10,000-to-win 4-Crown Nationals at Eldora Speedway and he was the only driver to win with and without a wing.

The unrelated Gordons – Eric and Jeff – made their mark in 1990. Eric scored two big wins on his way to the runner-up point spot and Jeff starred in the televised events. A high point for Eric was the May 13 IRP race where he was presented his winner's trophy by none other than A.J. Foyt.

Greg Staab was a consistent performer and wound up third in the final points while newcomer Rick Howerton was spectacular in his drive to fourth in the standings.

First time USAC National Sprint Car winners included 1989 USAC Midget Champ Russ Gamester in his first ever sprint car feature start at Kokomo Speedway and veteran Bob Cicconi at Missouri's I-44 Speedway.

Butler clinched the title in great style, winning the main event at the Winchester high banks in October.
