2000 USAC NATIONAL SPRINT CAR REVIEW

Tony Elliott of Warsaw, Indiana outlasted Jay Drake to win the 2000 USAC Stoops Freightliner National Sprint Car Championship, his second series title, despite the fact that Drake won 10 times!

The lack of an early season pavement ride hurt Drake's chances at the crown but he came within 24 points of catching Elliott in the final event.

Elliott was one of 11 different race winners in the 29-race series, which was conducted on 16 different tracks. His wins came in the Danny Milburn Classic at Indiana's Lawrenceburg Speedway and at Ohio's Eldora Speedway. Except for early-season leads by Drake and Derek Davidson and a brief one-race lead for Drake in late-August, Elliott led the standings most of the year.

Drake's victories included four in the Pennzoil Indiana Sprint Week series as he swept to that title. He won the Tony Hulman Classic and the $17,000-to-win Terre Haute Nationals, both at Indiana's Terre Haute Action Track. On his way to the 2000 USAC National Sprint Car title, Tony Elliott scored 19 top 10 finishes, including feature victories at Lawrenceburg and Eldora.

Other stars during the campaign were Tracy Hines, who swept the final three races on the calendar, including the 4-Crown Nationals and the Sammy Sessions Memorial at Indiana's Winchester Speedway as well as a record-setting sixth victory at Indianapolis Raceway Park.

Eric Gordon took the inaugural Glen Niebel Classic at Indiana's Anderson Speedway and the 50-lap Joe James-Pat O'Connor Memorial at Indiana's Salem Speedway. Brian Tyler secured a fourth Border Wars title in six years. Dave Darland scored victories at Ohio's Toledo Speedway, Iowa's Hawkeye Downs, and Eldora. His Toledo win earned him an IRL test with the Hemelgarn Racing team.

Bud Kaeding, the 1999 USAC Western Sprint Car champion, also scored his initial national win in the Pennzoil Indiana Sprint Week opener at Twin Cities Raceway Park and was named the True Value Rookie of the Year, while Brandon Petty was named Most Improved Driver after taking 12th in the final standings.

Rusty McClure was seriously injured in a crash at Eldora in April but had made a dramatic recovery by late season, while Todd Kane escaped injury in a flip at Terre Haute after breaking the track qualifying record there.

Series participants were saddened to learn of the death of former series coordinator Gary Sokola late in the season.
