Pet insurance pre authorisation. Argos pre authorisation form. Argos pet insurance policy.

What is pre-authorisation? Pre-authorisation, or pre-approval, occurs when an insurance company agrees to cover a claim before it happens. This can be helpful if treatment becomes more complex or if your pet requires costly surgery. If your policy allows pre-authorisation, you'll know what's covered and how much reimbursement you can expect from your pet insurance provider. Before submitting a pre-authorisation request, consider the following: Is pre-authorisation allowed by your insurer? Does your policy cover the treatment needed for your pet? Can the insurer pay your vet directly to avoid immediate payment? Have you reached your annual limit or are you within the waiting period? Only your pet insurance provider can confirm what's covered under your policy. Contact them with questions and review your Policy Wording to ensure you understand your terms and conditions. Each insurer has its own claim process, typically involving a claim form and supporting evidence.

Pet insurance claims usually involve vet fees but can also include death from accident or illness, as well as lost or stolen pets in some cases. Argos Pet Insurance has a three-step process for making claims: First, check your policy to see which treatments are covered; second, complete the first part of the claim form; and third, have your vet complete the second part. You can submit your claim by scanning it with supporting evidence and emailing it or sending it by post along with the required documents.
