Building 21 is an ongoing experiment in creative and exploratory scholarship. Everyone who enters is a participant in this shared experience, and your presence and actions shape the culture of this space. We ask that you are considerate in how you interact with it.

When you come in, come with the intention to

- Introduce yourself to, and get to know, anyone you don't know at B21.
- Treat everyone at B21 with respect and dignity.
- Check the space before you leave to ensure that you've left no trace.
- Wash your own dishes.
- Tidy up when necessary.
- Adopt a proactive attitude in caring for the space.
- Treat the computers & equipment gently.
- If you move furniture for an event, please reset before you leave.
- Take off your shoes or boots when you come in.

Hard rules

- Let anyone unknown in, unless they are here for an event, in which case it is the responsibility of the event host to verify that they are allowed access.
- Let anyone exit through the emergency exits, unless there is an emergency.
- Drink alcohol in B21 when there is not an official permit. Failure to adhere to this rule will result in automatic suspension of access to Building 21.
- Use the space as a study space for your degree requirements.
- Use the space outside of normal hours (M-F; 9am-5pm) without consulting with B21 staff

N.B. We welcome everybody, and are committed to creating an equitable environment.
