

Hong Kong's most trusted educational publication

Start Your Young Post Journey Today

Discover News-Powered Learning

Bring real-world learning to your students with Young Post and Young Post Spark. Published by the South China Morning Post, these enriching weekly publications blend award-winning journalism with curriculum-aligned content to foster English proficiency, critical thinking and global awareness in young readers. With each issue, discover authentic news content that takes classroom learning beyond the textbooks.

This year, our fully redesigned digital hub transforms the Young Post experience with powerful new features that promote self-directed learning, including personalised goal setting and engaging gamification elements. At the same time, teachers gain access to intuitive tools that simplify lesson planning, streamline progress tracking and help keep students motivated.

THE YOUNG POST FAMILY

Young Post

Best suited for advanced level English readers, Young Post is designed for those looking to challenge their English language skills.

What format do Young Post and Young Post Spark come in?

Young Post and Young Post Spark are separate publications. Both newspapers come in the following formats:

Print Newspaper

A weekly 24-page newspaper published every Monday.

ePaper

Available any time on digital devices or as a downloadable PDF for easy use in class.

Digital NEW!

Accessible via desktop or our all-new app for mobile and tablet, the revamped digital hub is built to support independent learning and foster daily reading habits.

Here, students are empowered to take control of their own reading journey by setting personal reading goals, while enjoying gamification features that make learning engaging and fun.

What's more, our digital platform acts as your personal teaching assistant, helping you prepare lessons more efficiently and monitor student progress with ease.
