Thank you to the countless staff, volunteers, and benefactors who contribute to the impact of our work with students and evangelization in the Catholic faith. This impact report and listing acknowledges friends who made contributions, financial and in service, from September 1, 2022 through August 31, 2023, to advance the mission of the Christian Brothers and our Midwest District ministries.

You make our mission possible!

To Our Lasallian Community,

What does it mean to accompany someone? It takes time. We begin slowly, just meeting and getting to know someone. It begins with small talk. Gradually you get a deeper look into the person's character, the way they think, what they value and appreciate. That accompaniment goes deeper until it becomes a form of solidarity. The risk along the way, of course, is thinking you really know someone more than you do. Each person is a mystery beyond our ability to know. If we begin to take a person for granted, we miss how they grow and change and develop. We mistakenly hold on to an image of them that might no longer exist. So, accompaniment means that as the relationship grows over time, we allow the person to change and our understanding of them to change and grow or we drift apart.

So, what does this have to do with anything about the Christian Brothers, the Lasallian movement rooted in St. John Baptist de La Salle, and you?

We Brothers and our Lasallian Colleagues and Partners in mission want to know you because we feel we are connected. All of you have experienced the profound impact of the relationship experienced with a Brother or another teacher. That connection was established possibly many years ago. You have grown into adult men and women, parents, grandparents, great grandparents even. You have established a life and a career.

Just like you, we have changed, too. In the beginning, the Brothers came to a city and began the schools with nothing. They begged for alms and began with just a few students. But over time the ministry turned into teaching students in elementary schools, then secondary and vocational schools, and ultimately universities with thousands of students.

We've all changed. None of us lives the way we once did. We have grown from individuals to couples to entire families. You have done this and the Brothers have grown into the Lasallian Family. And we want you to be part of our family because we have been connected with you over time and we value you. Because we value you, we want you to know who we are and why we do what we do. Transparency is an important dimension of friendship.

We know, as do you, that we are going to ask for your help. That is part of how we began when the Brothers first arrived in the United States and established the first school in St. Genevieve, Missouri. But it isn't just about philanthropy. We want you to know us. We want you to know our dreams and we want to hold all of you in prayer, remain cognizant of your dreams for yourself, your children, your partners and spouses, and communicate as honestly as we can with you.

We can't always stand face-to-face. But we can do some significant things together - side by side looking in the same direction as we face the needs of the young and especially the poor.

We can know one another more deeply and that is why we share our goals with you. As we all grow, develop, and change, we want you by our side and we want to be at yours.

St. John says God is love. If that is so, love is central to every relationship. Love is central to our mission. Love demands honest transparency and we will always attempt to live that through the work that we do.

Thank you,

Brother Michael Fehrenbach, FSC
Provincial Visitor, Midwest District

Your Journey With Us Matters!

One of the things many of us distrust is change. But change is inevitable. It allows us to explore and learn, helping us to grow and understand more about ourselves, our limits, and our desires. If we are to grow, then our goals must evolve with us. We set a goal, meet that goal, and set a new one. If we do not meet that goal, we reassess, devise a plan, and try again.

In the context of our Lasallian mission, goals are crucial. Teachers set learning goals for students, devising methods and plans which move them to understand and reach those goals. St. John Baptist de La Salle devised methods and practices to reach his goals, the salvation of the young poor boys of his city. Those methods and practices have become common in education, even to this day. As those entrusted to maintain, develop, and grow the work of our Lasallian family and mission, goals are also important to us.

Our goals always remain connected to our tradition and the initial inspiration that began this 340 year journey. We look at where we have been, assess the current needs, and discern a vision for the future.

Our Lasallian history shows a tremendous amount of growth—goals set and achieved. To reach these goals demands a great effort, not only from those doing the work, but from those who support that work. In many ways, that support is a crucial aspect of our mission.

We know we cannot do what we do without you. The Christian Brothers have become one of the largest, most innovative, and most successful teaching orders in the world. But it is only through our partnerships with the many benefactors that the salvation of the young is possible. We are grateful to you and to God for what we have accomplished, and will accomplish, together.

As one part of the Lasallian mission, the Office of Development is tasked with helping to build the support that allows us to continue our work. One of our goals is to continue to be good stewards of the resources you provide. We are truly grateful for your generosity and the gifts we have received, and we look toward the future with the hope and faith that you will see that your real partnership with us has truly made a difference in the world. As one of our benefactors, you partner with us in the sacred mission with which we have been entrusted. With every gift we receive, another student achieves the dream of a Lasallian education, learning the values, skills and habits that will make these young adolescents, young men and women, successful and productive members of their communities. But it's more than that. These students learn to be good citizens—good stewards of their communities. These students take part in the growth and development of those communities, making them better places for all their members to live and grow. We know this because we have generations of graduates who have done so – you among them.

The Midwest District

In addition, with every gift we receive, we provide for the comfort and safety of those Brothers who have spent their lives dedicated to the Lasallian mission. Those who have served young people and their own communities. And it is right to say that in doing so, they have made the world a better place.

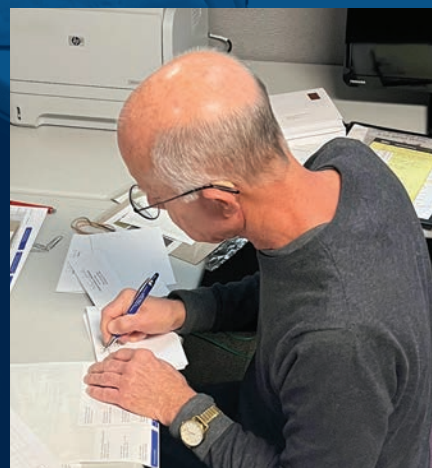

With every gift we receive, we build the Lasallian family – the community of those who seek to follow in the footsteps of St. John Baptist de La Salle—the lay people who will dedicate their lives to the Lasallian mission—the salvation of the young and making the world a better place for all through their dedication and commitment.

We look back with gratitude for the support you have given, how you have made the world better in a real, tangible way. And we look forward to an even greater future—one that builds on our past. One that changes the world. Thank you for taking this journey with us.

“To speak gratitude is courteous and pleasant, to enact gratitude is generous and noble, but to live gratitude is to touch Heaven.”

-Johannes A. Gaertner, author and theologian

Dear Friends,

Most of us have an instinctual understanding of gratitude as thankfulness, but it can mean different things to different people in different contexts. However, it generally encompasses the recognition of something positive in our lives, and the realization that this positive outcome came from something outside ourselves. Gratitude can be expressed when a friend or family member helps us through a difficult time or when we see someone less fortunate, but people of faith also experience it when we contemplate the gifts we have received from God.

Today, there are even scientific studies on gratitude. In one study, researchers found that people assigned to pray for four weeks reported higher gratitude than people who were assigned to think positive thoughts. This indicates that greater gratitude is activated when we contemplate the role of God in our lives. In our Lasallian family, this comes as no surprise. We understand, through the contemplation and work our mission involves, that God is found in those who have given their lives to teach, those who participate in our various ministries, and most importantly, in those we serve.

But gratitude involves more fundamental aspects of life. It gives us a sense of the past. In it, we contemplate the vistas of our past as we see and understand what has been given to us. There is an old saying, "There but for the grace of God, go I." We become aware of not only our gifts, but also the struggles that made us who we are. And we become thankful for both, for it is in the good that we see the work of God and in the struggle that we grow in strength and faith.

Gratitude also gives us a vision for tomorrow. Knowing the graces of our past gives us the strength and faith to carry on into the future. We understand the love of God because we have seen it at work. This enables us to live a life guided by thankfulness for our past, the values of faith we have been taught, and the desire for others to experience the gifts and graces we have.

When we understand our past, we understand our place in the world. We understand we must treat our gifts with respect and care. This means being a good steward. This includes the care and responsibility for something entrusted to us. As a Lasallian family, there is much entrusted to us—the lives of the young people we educate, the lives of the senior Brothers who have spent their lives in service, the training of those wishing to live in the footsteps of St. John Baptist de La Salle—in short, the whole of our Lasallian mission. And the basis of this trust, the basis of this stewardship, is care. Good stewards animate their work with compassion and care.

Stewardship, at its root, is respect for the past and care for the future. It is the living expression of gratitude, and together with gratitude, embodies the whole of our life in faith. And growing from gratitude and stewardship, is generosity—generosity in reflection, generosity in compassion, and generosity in care. We become more generous with ourselves when we express gratitude for our past, we express compassion when we maintain and grow the work of our Lasallian mission, and we express generosity when we care enough to ensure that that work continues into the future.

This report is our way to inform and show our gratitude for you, the stewards of our mission.

We say it often but we cannot say it often enough—thank you. You are the reason we exist; you are the reason we can do the work that we do.

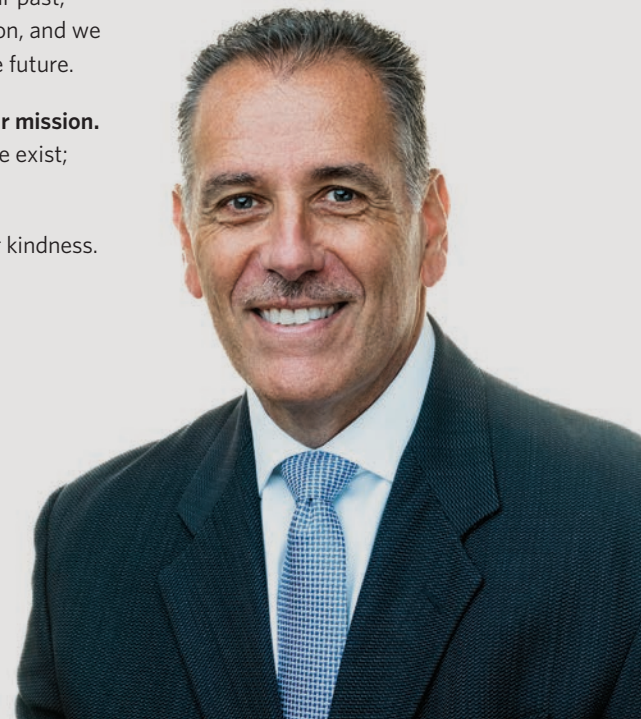

May God continue to bless you and your loved ones as you have blessed us with your kindness.

Live Jesus in our Hearts. Forever.

With gratitude,

Anthony C. Chimera, M.B.A.

Brother Thomas Hetland “Returns”

In 2011, Br. Thomas Hetland moved on from his role as Alumni and Development Director at Christian Brothers of the Midwest and began working with the Religious Medical Trust, part of Christian Brothers Services in Romeoville, IL. Christian Brothers Services was founded in the late 1950s by Br. Joel Damian, FSC, to provide insurance and pension services to Catholic entities throughout the United States, to their employees, and to their affiliated religious congregations.

At the end of last year, Br. Tom officially retired from his role at the Religious Medical Trust and is excited to return as a part-time volunteer to the Development team at the District office, working with Anthony Chimera, Joanna Wagner, Samantha VenHuizen, and Kim Kalafut.

"My three years with the Provinciate community in Westmont, IL, following fifty-two years of teaching were a blessing and a joy in community, study, prayer, parish life in Holy Trinity in Westmont, travel with Brother Visitor Michael, and rest! He then assigned me to be the Director of the Brothers' community at Christian Brothers High School in Memphis, TN, and to serve as his regional Assistant in Memphis. There are seven of us in the CBHS community, two of whom reside at Ave Maria Home. My days begin with 6:15 a.m. Mass at the parish, Interior Prayer in the parish chapel, the Today Show and coffee with my sister, then to Ave Maria Home to take Communion to Brothers Henry and William and visit with them, back to CBHS for an hour in the school archives, then lunch with the Brothers! Sundry tasks for the community, chapel at four, social and supper fill out the rest of the day. Since returning to Memphis, I have been able to give a few talks in local parishes. My study at Catholic Theological Union has paid big dividends! In a phrase... it is a joy to be a member of the Christian Brothers High School community in Memphis."

"A Brother..."

... is a man who has heard God's call
... is a man who loves teaching and cares about his students
... is a son of St. John Baptist de La Salle
... renews his vocation daily and finds support from other Brothers he lives with
... finds strength in prayer, both alone and in community
... laughs and cries, and listens and prays for others
... invites others to think about their call, whatever it may be
... promotes peace and justice
... knows how to celebrate, for life is short
... is Catholic and loves the Church, but doesn't overlook its faults
... strives to be a healing presence in the Church and the world.

Call me Brother because that is how I want to relate to everyone; my siblings love to call me their Brother brother!"

- Br. Alan Parham on what it means to be a Brother during his talk at Christian Brothers High School in Memphis, TN.

"I often reflect on the most enriching experiences of my life. As a grateful alumnus of Kansas City's De La Salle Academy, and a lifetime Brother's boy, the four years I spent at this inner city school gave me the foundation to succeed not only in my business sales career, but in my faith and family as well. With a debt to the men who dedicated their lives to the ministry of Catholic secondary teaching, supporting the Christian Brothers provides me with the confidence of knowing that my gift is making an impact on their ongoing work in education. Because of that, contributing to the Christian Brothers of the Midwest will always be an essential part of my annual giving mindset."
