

Environmental Policy

At coculture e.V., we recognize our responsibility to minimize the environmental impact of our operations and activities. As a cultural and human rights organization, we are committed to integrating environmentally conscious practices both internally and in the projects and events we organize.

We strive to:

- Reduce unnecessary travel and prioritize local participation whenever possible.
- Use digital communication tools to minimize environmental costs related to meetings and coordination.
- Work with local suppliers, artists, and venues to limit long-distance transport and shipping.
- Reuse and recycle materials in our production processes and events.
- Limit the use of printed materials and opt for sustainable options when printing is necessary.

While our environmental impact is modest due to the nature of our work, we continuously look for ways to improve and adopt sustainable practices that align with our values.
