ABOUT THE EXHIBITION

Artbooth Gallery is pleased to announce Threshold, a solo exhibition by Irish painter Richard Hearn, on view from November 6 through December 6, 2025. This marks Hearn's first solo exhibition in the UAE, presenting a body of work that reflects his ongoing exploration of gesture, memory, and place.

Working from his studio in the Burren, County Clare, Ireland, Richard Hearn is celebrated for both his figurative still life paintings and large scale gestural abstractions. His practice is rooted in physicality and mark making that seeks connection, vitality, and the presence of life energy. Balancing discipline with spontaneity, his paintings combine structured compositions with bold gestures, where charcoal lines carve space and prismatic color opens realms of possibility.

Born in Beirut in 1980 and adopted into Ireland, Hearn carries a dual heritage that profoundly shapes his artistic identity. His work emerges between cultures and histories, forming a distinctive visual language that draws inspiration from the raw, ancient landscapes of the Burren. The land's geological wildness, soft contours, and rhythms reverberate through his paintings, which embody both restraint and freedom raw emotion counterbalanced by precision.

Threshold presents Hearn's most recent body of work, developed following Nexus, a commissioned painting for Dublin City University. In these new canvases, Hearn engages with the idea of thresholds through imaginary landscapes. Improvisation, layering, and revision are integral to his process, where the presence of pentimento traces of prior marks and decisions becomes visible, revealing the evolution of thought and movement.

With a heightened sensitivity to color, light, and scale, Hearn's paintings evoke a sense of wonder and transcendence. They invite viewers to cross into realms beyond the everyday, offering a visceral encounter with the fundamental act of creation itself.

Hearn's career has been marked by a number of notable exhibitions at institutions and galleries including Jorgensen Gallery (Dublin), Cadogan Gallery (London & Milan), The Sheen Center for Thought and Culture (New York), and All Saints Gallery (California), The Exum Gallery, Tennessee & Sotheby's (London). His works are represented in prominent international collections both public and private such as Dublin City University, the Irish State Collection, Galgorm Group (Northern Ireland), St. Adare Manor (Ireland) Patrick's Cathedral (New York City), Naomi House Children's Hospice (UK), Aston Wealth Management (Ireland), ITC Company (Ireland), and SEPIL (Ireland & The Netherlands).

"I listen closely," Hearn reflects. "A painting tells me when it's done. I rarely retouch a piece that whispers 'complete.'"

Through Threshold, Artbooth Gallery invites audiences to engage with this dialogue of energy, gesture, and memory in an exhibition that celebrates painting as both an intimate and expansive act of being.

RICHARD HEARNS

B. 1980

Richard Hearn is an Irish painter working in the Burren, County Clare. He is known for both his figurative still life paintings and large-scale gestural abstractions, where composition, materiality, and mark-making take centre stage.

His practice is rooted in physicality, driven by a need to connect and leave an impression of life energy. A background in representational painting informs his abstract work, which balances discipline with spontaneity. Charcoal lines carve space, enclose shapes, and create movement, while subtle framing devices and carefully structured compositions guide the viewer's eye.

Born in Beirut in 1980 and adopted into Ireland, Hearn carries a dual heritage that shapes his artistic identity. His work exists between cultures and histories, forming a unique visual language influenced by the landscape in which he now creates. The Burren's raw, ancient presence acts as both setting and source, its rhythms echoing in the flow of his gestures.

Hearn's paintings evoke a sense of wonder and possibility, offering a visceral experience that connects the viewer to something larger. His intention is to create works that enrich lives visually, emotionally, and creatively, engaging with the fundamental act of creation itself.

In his most recent body of paintings, which began with Nexus, a commissioned work for Dublin City University, Hearn has been exploring the concept of thresholds through imaginary landscapes. These works engage with the fluidity of contemporary painting practice, embracing improvisation, layering, and revision as essential elements of their making. Pentimento, the presence of prior marks and decisions, is central to the process, revealing the evolution of thought and movement on the canvas. Employing prismatic colour and dynamic compositions, these paintings evoke realms felt beyond the everyday, inviting the viewer into a space of possibility and transformation.
