Persons with conditional eligibility are sometimes required to take the fixed route bus.

Demand Response – a term that is often used to describe any services, which is not a fixed route. This term is also used to describe service provided to those who cannot use the fixed route service.

Door-to-Door – when necessary, the client will be assisted from their door to our door and from our door to the door of their destination.

Disability – any physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities, a record of such impairment, or being upgraded as having such an impairment. Major life activities include caring for one’s self, performing manual tasks, walking, seeing, hearing, speaking, breathing, learning and working. This definition is also for persons with cognitive disabilities and those with contagious to non-contagious diseases. (Definition taken from Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) Paratransit Handbook, US D.O.T., UMTA, September 1991, pp 1-6).

Elderly – users that are 60 years of age or older.

Fixed Route – a service provided along a prescribed route according to a set schedule. Examples of this type of service are the routes and loops operated by the NRTA during its seasonal operations. When operating fixed route bus service the NRTA is required to offer comparable paratransit service to those who cannot use the fixed route bus service.

Non/ADA Trip – advanced reservation dial-a-ride response service that is available to persons with disabilities and elders.

Paratransit Service – transportation the NRTA must provide, consistent with the ADA, to disabled persons unable to access the fixed route bus system.

This operation is a “door to door” service. When the NRTA is providing fixed route service, the NRTA’s van serves as the ADA Paratransit service as well. The NRTA will continue to strive to operate “door to door”. However, the NRTA strives to provide safe, comfortable and reliable transportation and therefore reserves the right to offer paratransit and van services “curb to curb” when it is deemed necessary or when “door to door” causes safety concerns for the driver and/or passengers.

PARATRANSIT ELIGIBILITY

Disability alone does not create eligibility. Eligibility must be determined according to guidelines based on the ADA. A person must be prevented by the disability from accessing or navigating the fixed route service to be considered eligible for Paratransit service. Applications for Paratransit eligibility are available by calling the NRTA Administrative Office at 508-325-7516 or www.nrtawave.com. Assistance in filling out the forms or for large print and accessible formats can be arranged.

Based on the disability, the person will be determined to have conditional or unconditional eligibility. Unconditional eligibility is granted to individuals whose disability prevents them from ever using fixed route. Conditional eligibility is granted to individuals who can use the fixed route system under certain circumstances, but need Paratransit service under certain conditions (i.e. weather conditions, distance to the stop).

The NRTA will notify the applicant of the decision by letter within 21 days of receipt of the application.

Persons whose conditions change may reapply at any time.

An appeal must be filed within sixty (60) days of the denial of an individual's application. The individual filing the appeal will be provided an opportunity to present their appeal in person. As part of the appeals process, the NRTA has the right to request additional documentation (relating to the person's ability to use transit services) from a physical therapist, rehabilitation counselor or other health care professional. The NRTA may require that a health care professional designated by the NRTA, at the expense of the NRTA, evaluate the applicant. The NRTA Administrator or the NRTA Administrator's designee will hear the appeal.

2. The NRTA is not required to provide Paratransit service to the individual pending the determination on appeal. However, if the NRTA has not made a decision within thirty (30) days of the receipt of the appeal, the NRTA will provide service from that time and until a decision on the appeal is made. Written decisions are available in accessible formats upon request.

transportation. This determination will be made in a non-discriminatory manner consistent with the ADA.

An appeal of the decision to refuse or terminate service may be made by the affected customer within 10 days of the determination date.
