

PRESENTER

Jay Zagorsky

---

Professor Jay Zagorsky is an economist at Boston University's Questrom School of Business. At Boston University he has taught over 12,000 students, where his teaching has won awards and prizes. For over twenty years he was also a researcher at Ohio State University, seeking to understand poverty and wealth. He has published scientific articles in many disciplines and has written five books. His latest book is "The Power of Cash," which shows the benefits of using paper money. Beyond his scholarly work each month he writes easy to understand articles for the general public at TheConversation.com, read by millions of people. Currently, he is one of Boston University's most widely quoted professors and frequently appears on television, radio, podcasts, and in print.

---