Professional Summary

I served in The US Navy during the first Gulf war. I also spent much of my life working as an Auto technician and tire installer before starting my own online Tire Business and local tire shop in 2005. After running for 3 years and a slowing economy I had to give the business up and began working toward working on other online businesses finally settling on the Blog Yeswecoupon.com in 2010 that eventually became the site we still run today that merged into Glitchndezal.com. Our site posts deals and coupons for stores all over the country and is at the point where it only takes me a few hours per day to update so I am looking for something to do that will get me back out into the world away from the computer.
