

The Fundadores Lounge Exclusive Insights from the Quiet Corners of Power

I'm excited to introduce my new interview series — The Fundadores Lounge, designed to feel like you're overhearing an unfiltered conversation between two influential people in a private cigar lounge. Each episode offers rare insights into legacy-building, leadership, and long-term investing — the kind of high-level thinking you normally wouldn't get to hear, but won't want to miss.

In our first episode, I speak with Dag Holmboe, CEO of Pacific Cigar Company. What begins as a chat over cigars turns into a powerful dialogue about authenticity, cross-cultural leadership, and how passion becomes strategy in business and investing.

Top Takeaways:

- The real meaning of luxury in today's world
- How cross-cultural empathy shapes global expansion
- Why empowered leadership creates lasting loyalty
- What cigars can teach us about passion-driven investing

Thank you for being part of this journey.

Stay tuned for more intimate conversations that blend legacy, finance, and family.

Best wishes,
