Acadian Health and Tripp Hollander Advisors Announce Strategic Partnership for Hospital at Home

November 4, 2026 — Acadian Health and Tripp Hollander Advisors are proud to announce a strategic partnership, uniting two powerhouses in the design and delivery of decentralized, high-acuity care. The newly formed alliance is the apparent successful bidder of a large hospital at home project in Washington state.

This collaboration is not just an upcoming launch—it is a comprehensive market reboot designed to redefine and improve the standard for decentralized acute care. By uniting their respective strengths, Acadian Health and Tripp Hollander Advisors have created a one-stop shop for hospitals and health systems to build or relaunch hospital at home programs and other care at home offerings.

The partnership marries strategic vision with on-the-ground execution:

- Tripp Hollander Advisors brings proven expertise in clinical and program design, regulatory compliance, financial analysis, technology evaluation, and systems integration.
- Acadian Health provides comprehensive operations across multiple states. They lead the logistics of the in-home environment, from hiring, staffing, and training to supply chain management, while delivering direct clinical care.

Building Upon Innovation

With many vendors now offering hospital at home software platforms, the Acadian Health and Tripp Hollander partnership builds on that innovation by creating resilient, patient-focused, and operationally sound programs. Its outcomes-driven focus is helping advance the industry conversation on decentralized care and sets the partnership apart in today's healthcare landscape.

Bringing Decades of Expertise to the Table

The executive teams at both organizations bring unparalleled, tried-and-true experience, positioning the partnership to make progressive change in this industry. Key leaders driving this partnership share decades of combined experience in clinical practice, operations, law, and policy, bringing invaluable strategic insights to the new venture:

- Jeremy Coombs, Senior Director of Acadian Health, has 25 years of experience operationalizing decentralized care delivery in the home.
- Lisa Tripp, Founder and Partner of Tripp Hollander Advisors, is a nationally recognized expert on healthcare regulatory matters and was the co-author of the CMS Acute Hospital Care at Home waiver.
- Shira Hollander, Founder and Partner of Tripp Hollander Advisors, has over a decade of experience advising hospitals, health systems, and technology companies on health care law, policy, and strategy.
- Colleen Hole, RN, MHA, FACHE, Strategic Advisor with Tripp Hollander Advisors, has 42 years of clinical and leadership experience and built and ran the largest hospital at home program in the country.

Together, these leaders have synthesized years of high-level industry experience into an agile model for hospital at home care. The apparent successful bid in Washington state marks the first of many milestones for a partnership equipped to design, build, and operate the future of hospital at home and other care at home models.
