An Overview

Now that we are off and running in 2026, we wanted to take a moment to look back on 2025 to share what we have learned and achieved. This report is designed to provide Transparency to you, our community, as this is one of the Core Values of the HRAA. Providing deeper insight will allow you all to keep your finger on the pulse of what we are doing and help us work towards our goals

All said and done, 2025 was a very successful year for the HRAA.

We are proud to say that we achieved 4 out of 5 of our goals but did fall short on the club sponsorships. We look forward to continuing to build a strong platform and community that will allow Husky Rugby to prosper. We hope that you will take the time to read through our first ever Annual Report and look forward to a great 2026!

The annual goals that we set for ourselves were as follows:

- $20k in club sponsorships for '25/26 season
- $60k scholarship budget for '26 recruiting
- $175k in gross revenue
- Launch Legacy Donor Club with 3 Legacy commitments
- 300 clubhouse members

University Relations

We held several meetings with University officials with the primary goal of gaining a clearer understanding of Husky Rugby's position within the University. We are grateful to everyone who took the time to meet with us and speak candidly; we learned a great deal from these conversations.

The reality is that Husky Rugby currently receives limited support from the University, and this represents the greatest challenge we must address. While the road ahead will not be easy, we remain fully committed to improving Husky Rugby's standing within the University and positioning the club for long-term success.

These meetings should not be viewed negatively. In fact, they were a positive step forward, as they provided clarity on where we stand and the level of effort required to achieve our goals. Strengthening Husky Rugby's presence and support within the University will be a key focus moving forward.

Three areas of focus for us are:

Facilities

As a club sport, Husky Rugby is currently the lowest on the pecking order when it comes to facility access. The result of this is the team having to train from 8-10PM because intramural sports, mainly flag football, gets precedence on booking field time. This is not only challenging for students who are juggling the demands of school and sport, but also for the club to who is trying to build a winning culture.

Funding

As a club sport, the University currently provides approximately $1500 in funding per year and though this is very much appreciated, it does little to help the clubs $70k+ annual budget.

Recruiting

The University of Washington has very strict guidelines on the admissions front, so much so that admissions evaluators are not even able to factor in Letters of Recommendation from the Head Coach when weighing decisions about applicants/recruits. This puts us at a huge disadvantage to other Universities when it comes to actively recruiting top tier players.

With over 50 returning players this year, we kicked off the season with 10 days of preseason training and three exhibition matches. The excitement around a strong senior class and promising new recruits has been tempered by injuries. Despite that, the club has continued building culture through course correction and refocusing our energy on the future.

Our first match against Trinity Western University was an exciting one, as we shocked them out of the gates and finished in a narrow loss to a powerful, highly recruited Canadian side. Unfortunately, this is where injuries began snowballing among many of our top starters and strongest recruits. Twenty-nine of our 65 players have missed at least one match due to injury, carrying around 20% week to week. With many of those being key players, it's no surprise this has been a tough quarter. Some players entered preseason with weightlifting injuries, while others were underprepared and suffered strains under preseason rigor.

As players from our exhibition matches went down, conference games forced us to rely on our depth and to blood new talent. With so many seniors, we didn't expect so many new players and recruits to see First XV minutes in the fall, a silver lining to the injuries. The OSU loss was deflating after beating them three times last year. The CWU match looked promising, taking a 21-0 lead before halftime, before key personnel leaving the field led to a narrow loss. As struggles continued, the most important turning point came after the heavy loss to UO in Eugene, when our captain pulled out pre-game and our vice-captain exited after 10 minutes. The captains called a seniors meeting and laid out actionable plans to build a culture of strength and conditioning that would mitigate injury and set replacements up to be competitive.

Since then, we have seen an incredible shift - increasing attendance, commitment, and buy-in across the board, despite one of the most painful losses against our opponents up the road at WWU. Leading into the break, we stress the importance of staying fit and strong, and will kick off Winter quarter with a California tour, an important teamship builder for any team.

Kevin Fuller

As we close the fiscal year, we remain steadfast in our pursuit of building a top-tier rugby program in the Pacific Northwest, one that provides high-caliber players with a meaningful competitive and educational advantage during college and beyond. The financial support entrusted to HRAA this year has been managed with care and purpose, directly advancing our mission and strengthening the foundation for long-term success. We are deeply grateful for the continued commitment of our donors and community, whose generosity makes this vision possible and ensures a strong future for our student-athletes and the program as a whole.

Looking ahead to 2026, the Board's primary focus will be on strengthening our standing within the University, expanding and formalizing a comprehensive recruiting program, and further improving our financial position to better support the club. While we recognize the challenges ahead, we are fully prepared to meet them—and with your continued support, we are confident in our ability to do so.
