

P4Q NEWSLETTER

October was an exciting month at P4Q, filled with energy and school spirit! Our Fall Festival was a wonderful success, bringing students and staff together for fun games and seasonal activities. Students also enjoyed trick-or-treating throughout the school, showing off their costumes and sharing in the Halloween excitement.

P4Q proudly turned pink for Breast Cancer Awareness Month as students, teachers, and staff came together in every shade of pink to show support and raise awareness.

Autumn has arrived with bright leaves and gentle breezes that make every day feel special. We recognized Indigenous Peoples' Day and Diwali, taking time to learn about their traditions and celebrating the values of kindness and light. One of our favorite moments this season was the Fall Festival, where all the sites came together to celebrate with families. It was such a joyful day! Our PANDA's actively participated in their lessons, always trying their best. Each day, they continued learning new skills in reading, writing, math, science, and social studies. We also celebrated Halloween with fun costumes, spooky decorations, and exciting crafts. The students enjoyed trick or treating, making pumpkin art, and sharing treats with their friends. It was a day full of laughter, creativity, and festive fun!

P4Q@138

October has been a wonderful month of learning, exploring and celebrating! Students have now settled comfortably into their new classrooms and daily routines, showing great enthusiasm and curiosity each day. Students learned about Indigenous People's Day and Diwali, exploring the traditions and stories that make each celebration so special. We also wrapped up October with a spooktacular Halloween celebration complete with a spooky dance, trick-or-treating and lots of festive activities! In the classrooms, V61 students created Place Value Creatures, giving each body part a number value in the ones, tens and hundreds place, while Y61, Y62 and X60 enjoyed pumpkin science, carving pumpkins, counting seeds and learning about pumpkin parts. We're so proud of how engaged our learners have been. Looking forward to a colorful November ahead!

P4Q@161

Our inclusion students participated in PS 161's Fall Field Day with their classmates. The students got to do potato sack races, a pumpkin relay, over-under, an obstacle course, corn hole, and so much more. All the students were exhausted after all the fun activities. We also had a lovely day honoring and supporting breast cancer awareness research by wearing pink school-wide and donating to our community bake sale. Finally, we finished off the month with our Halloween costume day and enjoyed seeing our friends and teachers dressed in fun outfits while still conducting business as usual!

P4Q@270

October was filled with lots of fun and learning at 270! Students worked diligently on our regular curriculum and also learned about Diwali and Indigenous Peoples' Day. Our whole site took a trip to the Pumpkin Patch and enjoyed a beautiful fall day together feeding and petting animals, playing in a giant sensory bin and on all kinds of fun slides, taking a hay ride, and of course picking out a pumpkin! Individual classes also got to enjoy the Community Mayor's field trip to the aquarium and the zoo. We were also so excited to welcome families to school for a Fall Festival where students and their families played games, did crafts, decorated pumpkins, and enjoyed yummy treats. We look forward to more excitement in November!

70 Continued...

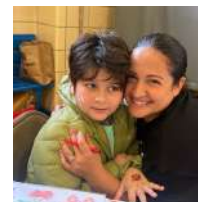

October was full of fun! Students enjoyed trick-or-treating around the school, where we practiced social skills and had the chance to celebrate Halloween with their classmates.

Mrs. Sam, our ADL teacher introduced our brand new Panda Cafe, an exciting hands on learning experience for students. At the cafe, students will have the opportunity to choose, buy, and sell snacks, helping them build real world math, communication, and life skills. Don't forget to send your child in with money so they can participate and enjoy this fun and educational experience.

P4Q@Skillman

Welcome to October! As the leaves turn vibrant shades of orange and gold, our school has embraced the spirit of autumn with exciting pumpkin themed activities! In a wonderful parent engagement activity, students painted pumpkins with their family members in our cafeteria. Classrooms went on a field trip in our community to the Green Meadows Farm. The students fed the zoo animals, as well as, posed for photographs on a fun tractor. Halloween is always an exciting time for students and they had a great time with all activities! We are excited to see what November brings!

P4Q@213

This October, P4Q@213 was filled with excitement and community spirit! Parents joined us for a special engagement event, where they decorated cookies and shared seasonal stories with the children. Students also celebrated our Fall Festival, enjoying face painting, arts and crafts, pumpkin picking, and Trick-or-Treating around the school. Many dressed in their favorite costumes, making the day even more festive. Events like these not only bring joy to our students but also enrich our curriculum by creating opportunities to explore, create, and connect together as a school community.
