

P4Q NEWSLETTER

March is a month of growth and inclusion as we celebrate Women’s History Month by honoring female leaders who inspire our students to dream big. Our school community is staying active with field trips that bring our lessons to life. We wore our green for St. Patrick’s Day and participated in fun activities. National Panda Day had us sporting black and white clothing while learning about conservation. Those crazy socks you saw, were to raise awareness on World Down Syndrome Day. We are proud to recognize this day to raise awareness and celebrate the unique bridge of abilities within our student body.

P4Q@179

March has been a busy and exciting month filled with meaningful celebrations across our school community. We celebrated St. Patrick's Day with festive activities that brought smiles and laughter throughout the building. One of our proud moments this month was celebrating National Panda Day, a special day that honors our school mascot and brings our school community together with strong PANDA spirit. We also recognized World Down Syndrome Day by promoting kindness, acceptance, and inclusion, reminding everyone that our differences make us stronger. In addition, we shared warm wishes with families who celebrated Eid, learning about the importance of family, gratitude, and community. As we adjusted to Daylight Saving Time, our PANDA's continued to stay engaged in their lessons, working hard and building new skills in reading, writing, math, science, and social studies. It has truly been a month full of learning, celebration, and school pride.

P4Q@138

Our 138 Pandas are 100 days smarter! We celebrated the 100th day of school with fun, hands on activities that had students excited to count to 100. Throughout March, students have continued to make great progress in their independent writing, showing more confidence and creativity in expressing their ideas. We honored Women's History Month by learning about influential women and their contributions, helping to inspire our students in meaningful ways. Classes also enjoyed celebrating St. Patrick's Day by tasting Irish soda bread and creating festive crafts. In addition, Mondays have kicked off a health and wellness initiative with classes, where they discuss healthy eating habits and ways to incorporate movement into their daily lives. Ms. Brigid, our PT, encourages positive lifestyle choices and helps them build healthy habits that support both their learning and well being. We are so proud of our students and the progress they continue to make each day!

P4Q@161

Happy Spring! March was a month of continued dedication and application for our P4Q inclusion students! We have been working so hard to complete our assignments and lessons. Currently, we are honing in on the skills we have learned throughout the year so that we may perform our absolute best on the upcoming state tests. Our practice assessments have seen increased scores and have provided our students with the confidence to approach the test with ease, rather than stress. We also participated in Civics Week celebrating youth voice, civic empowerment, and the importance of registering to vote. Each of our students created their very own Civics for All poster, and submitted it to the city-wide contest! We also would like to extend warm wishes to all of our families who celebrated Eid.

P4Q@270

March was a month full of creativity, curiosity, and celebration in the P4Q@270 classrooms. Students brought the classic saying, "March comes in like a lion and out like a lamb" to life with imaginative art projects that brightened our hallways. We also honored Women's History Month by learning about inspiring women who have made a lasting impact on our world. To top it off, our young scientists rolled up their sleeves for hands-on sink-or-float experiments, exploring predictions, testing ideas, and discovering the joy of scientific thinking.

70 Continued...

March was an exciting month at our school! We had lots of fun getting into the spirit of St. Patrick's Day. In ADL, students made shamrock shakes, this brought smiles and school spirit to our classrooms. To welcome the first day of spring, Miss Cave hosted a wonderful pop-up flower shop where students had the opportunity to "shop" for flowers and celebrate the new season. It was a joyful way to practice social skills, make choices, and spread kindness throughout our school community. We are so proud of the enthusiasm and participation our students showed during all of these special events

P4Q@Skillman

Goodbye to March! We continue to work hard in and out of our classrooms. Our students are working diligently on our math skills. In some classes, we are working on addition and in others we have moved into advanced skills such as fractions!

In physical education, we are starting to talk about the upcoming World Cup and practicing our soccer skills.

All elementary classes continue to work hard at Foundations to improve on our literacy skills. This month we also had St. Patrick's day! Some of us dressed our best in our green outfits. We also had Eid in March and learned about the history and tradition associated with the observance of the day.

P4Q@213

March was an exciting month!! Our P4Q@213 Pandas celebrated National Panda Day with fun and engaging themed activities that brought lots of smiles and school spirit. Students also explored spring-themed, hands-on activities, welcoming the new season through sensory experiences and interactive learning. In addition, some of our classes participated in the District 75 STEM Fair experiences during their visit to the Museum of Natural History. Students had the opportunity to explore exhibits and engage in science-based learning in a real-world setting.

We are proud of our students for their participation and enthusiasm this month, and we thank our families for their continued support!
