Chris Schulz is a skilled trial attorney who brings a wealth of experience to Allegiant Law, focusing on trust and estate litigation and complex civil matters. Chris navigates the intricate legal challenges that arise when trusts and estates become contested or require court intervention.

His prior experience as a public defender in Louisville, KY provided Chris with extensive courtroom advocacy skills that serve him well in his current practice at Allegiant Law. The fast-paced, high-stakes environment of public defense work honed his ability to think quickly on his feet, craft persuasive arguments, and effectively communicate with diverse clients during emotionally challenging circumstances. This background gives him a unique perspective when representing individuals in sensitive family and financial matters, including will contests, trust disputes, fiduciary litigation, and matters involving contested conservatorships and guardianships.

Throughout his career, Chris has demonstrated a talent for distilling complex legal issues into clear, persuasive arguments. His clients appreciate his ability to explain complicated legal concepts in accessible terms, ensuring they remain informed and empowered throughout the legal process. This skill has proven particularly valuable at Allegiant Law, where many clients are navigating the legal system for the first time during periods of significant family stress or loss. Chris brings clarity to emotionally charged and financially complex situations, helping clients navigate difficult transitions and protect their rights and interests.
