

Help us support children with disabilities in Ukraine

Until August 24, we are collecting donations together with ZWST for the Bukovina Center for Comprehensive Child Rehabilitation in Chernivtsi.

Children with disabilities and their families were already among the most disadvantaged population groups in Ukraine before Russia's war of aggression. Since the war began, this situation has worsened – the western Ukrainian city of Chernivtsi has become a place of refuge for tens of thousands of families. As a result, the need for medical and therapeutic care has risen sharply.

The Bukovina Center for Comprehensive Child Rehabilitation in Chernivtsi has been supported by OlamAid together with our partner organization ZWST since 2023.

The center cares for children with autism spectrum disorders, developmental delays, and neurological and physical impairments from across the region – including children orphaned by the war. It has 46 inpatient beds, where children typically stay for a full month and receive intensive diagnostic, therapeutic, and rehabilitative care every day. In addition, around 1,500 children receive outpatient treatment and take part in therapies and medical care each month.

To continue meeting this growing need, the center relies on additional support.

Your donation makes possible:

- modern diagnostics for children with autism spectrum disorders
- the equipping of specially designed therapy rooms for behavioral therapy, speech therapy, and movement and sensory therapy
- a calm, child-friendly environment for effective therapy

Shortly before Rosh Hashanah, representatives from OlamAid, together with ZWST, will visit the center in Chernivtsi to see the situation firsthand.

Help us ensure that children with disabilities have access to modern diagnostics and therapy, even under the difficult conditions of war. Together, we can give hope to affected children and their families.
