The Solution

You have to be proactive to counteract the natural entropy of culture erosion.

You do this by focusing on the six pillars.
Just think of the acronym “CREATE” to remember them:

Connection

Recognition

Empathy

Alignment

Trust

Elevation

CREATE

Communication

- ➔ Is your strategic messaging clear and consistent?
- ➔ Are you being transparent about your decision-making?
- ➔ Are you actively listening to employee concerns and addressing them?
- ➔ Do you have an internal communications plan, supported with the right tools and processes?

Signs of Erosion

- Information hoarding
- Misalignment across teams
- Increased gossip
- Duplication of effort
- Information hoarding
- Low meeting participation
- Conflict avoidance
- Low participation in meetings

CREATE

Recognition

- ➔ Do leaders regular, timely, personalized, public recognition?
- ➔ Do you empower employees to give peer-to-peer recognition?
- ➔ Do leaders provide regular positive feedback in private, and offer rewards?
- ➔ Do you have a formalized recognition program to make it easy to infuse gratitude and appreciation into your culture?

Signs of Erosion

- Wins go unnoticed
- Employee engagement starts to dip
- Feedback is mostly negative
- No rituals or systems for recognition
- Recognition is top-down
- Only the loud or visible get recognized

CREATE

Environment

- ➔ Do your leaders model vulnerability and authenticity?
- ➔ Do your employees feel like they have a best friend at work?
- ➔ Do you have clear expectations around respect and inclusion?
- ➔ Do you encourage your employees to maintain a good work-life balance?

Signs of Erosion

- People don't speak up
- Micromanagement
- Low energy or apathy
- No respect for personal boundaries
- Tension, friction, or passive-aggressiveness
- Lack of trust
- Fear of being judged or punished

CREATE

Alignment

- ➔ Does every employee understand how their work contributes to company-wide goals?
- ➔ Are roles and responsibilities clearly defined across the entire organization?
- ➔ Are you setting clear, achievable goals then tracking and reporting on them?
- ➔ Is there space for employees to ask questions, and get clarity without punishment?

Signs of Erosion

- Disconnect between strategy and execution
- Goal fatigue
- Decision-making feels inconsistent or political
- Lack of clarity around roles and ownership
- Duplicated effort
- Low Cross-functional collaboration

CREATE

Trust

- ➔ Do you give employees autonomy and flexibility to do their work?
- ➔ Are you transparent and honest about how and why difficult decisions are made?
- ➔ Are managers and employees held accountable for their actions?
- ➔ Do you practice active listening during conflicts or difficult conversations?

Signs of Erosion

- Increase in micromanagement
- Poor transparency
- Entitled leaders
- Lack of empowerment
- Inconsistent accountability
- Unnecessarily rigid work environment
- Centralized decision-making

CREATE

Elevation

- ➔ Are you providing employees with opportunities for advancement?
- ➔ Do you encourage managers to understand their employees' career goals?
- ➔ Do you provide clear benchmarks and targets for growth?
- ➔ Do you encourage mentorship, continuing education, and learning and development opportunities?

Signs of Erosion

- Unclear career paths
- Disinterested, apathetic managers
- Limited advancement opportunities
- Lack of investment in learning and development
- Leadership disinterested in mentorship

CULTURE EROSION

The Solution

Great culture
doesn't happen by accident...
you have to CREATE it.
