Introduction

At intive, we believe that business culture has real impact: We strive to use each opportunity to make a positive change. We're responsible for how we run our operations and how it affects peoples' lives and shapes the future. The way we act as intivers matters just as much as the services and solutions we provide. This is expressed in our Code of Conduct that came into force in June 2019 and is constantly reviewed and improved, to reflect our professional standards and address current regulations that impact our day-to-day activities.

You, as our partner and supplier, providing to intive any product or service, co-create the business culture with us.

For the purposes of this Supplier Code of Conduct, "Supplier" means any third party providing goods or services to intive, including legal entities as well as independent contractors (natural persons or entities providing services under a B2B contractual relationship). Where this Code refers to obligations towards employees or workforce, such obligations apply only to Suppliers who employ or otherwise engage personnel, as applicable.

We'd like to make sure we share common values, maintain the highest ethical standards, and adhere to all applicable laws. Therefore, we've incorporated the principles of corporate responsibility into our purchasing processes, forming this Supplier Code of Conduct.

This document also addresses any subcontractors, agents or other third parties that you engage with in your work for us, if allowed in our agreement. This document doesn't refer to any minor transactions, as well as transactions of small value or orders not regulated by a mutual contract. We work together to contribute to numerous success stories driven by technology expertise and inspired, passionate people.

Our standards can be met only with your cooperation and commitment.

In our business operations, we look for suppliers that are as committed as we are to achieve their goals in an ethical way.

We pay great attention to the selection process of our suppliers and carefully consider supplier background and qualifications.

You respect
the law

You comply with all laws applicable, with respect to sanctions, in particular by the U.S. government, the UNSC, the EU, HMT or other relevant sanctions authority imposing export controls, trade sanctions restrictive measures and other mandatory regulations of the same nature ("Sanction Laws"), including designating countries, entities and persons ("Sanctions Targets").

You do not, directly or indirectly, export, re-export or otherwise deliver any proceeds or services to a Sanctions Target, finance or otherwise facilitate any transaction in violation of any Sanction Laws.

You comply with all national and international anti-bribery regulations as well as applicable anti-corruption laws, regulations and standards. You do not give, promise or authorize an offer for anything of value to anyone, including public officials, for the purpose of gaining an improper business advantage or placing undue influence on the recipient. The offering itself can take many forms, from money (facilitation payments) to benefits such as gifts and entertainment of unreasonably high value. An “improper business advantage” can take forms such as preferential treatment, contract conclusion or the disclosure of confidential information.

You do not offer, promise or provide to any intiver or their family member a kickback, favor, gratuity, entertainment or anything of value, to obtain favorable treatment. Our employees are similarly prohibited from soliciting such favors from you. intivers are only allowed to grant or receive gifts or entertainment of a small value and courtesy nature, given openly, in a regular business context. To avoid doubt, we implemented an “Anti-bribery and corruption policy” which provides clear guidance and encompasses numerous reporting and monitoring controls.

Fair competition laws are introduced to promote dynamic market growth by regulating anti-competitive conduct by companies. They address areas such as illegal agreements between competitors that restrict free trading and competition, abusive behavior by a company dominating a market, exclusivity arrangements or pricing. At intive, we pay great attention to information security and the quality of our services. It is very important for us to cooperate mainly with companies that have implemented ISO 9001, ISO/IEC 27001 and Tisax for automotive locations, appointed persons responsible for quality and information security, and whose employees have received quality and information security training.

Following security principles shall be acknowledged:

intive

You respect
the environment

Legal provisions

You comply with all applicable environmental laws, regulations and standards and obtain and maintain all applicable environmental permits, regulatory approvals, and registrations.

You strive to minimize the negative environmental impact of your activities, products and services through a proactive approach such as identifying and eliminating potential risk of a detrimental influence on the environment.

At intive, we hold dear a “think twice” approach. We carefully consider each travel cost and track our carbon footprint. We also build and run our offices with sustainability in mind.

Sustainable resource management

You are fully compliant with applicable regulatory requirements and standards for sustainable resource management in your area of business. Beyond regulations, you strive to manage resources in a way that will benefit current and future generations.

Based on materiality/relevance in regards to your business model, you are considering natural resources like raw materials, water, air, and land, as well as processed goods, which you procure as inputs. You respect the applicable land tenure rights and water rights, in particular, committing to avoid forced evictions and deprivation of land, forests and waters when acquiring, developing or otherwise using land, forests and waters.

You will also look into outputs, e.g. by adopting sustainable management of waste or air emissions. If required, you will determine the condition of the soil in your area of responsibility and establish appropriate measures to maintain and improve soil quality. You are handling hazardous substances with special care and in line with regulatory standards.

Travel and transport management

You try to minimize all transportation and logistics activities in order to optimize your processes and reduce the number of unnecessary journeys. You try to avoid any unnecessary travel (for instance by switching to videoconference tools) and choose adequate means of transportation that help both your business goals and the environment.

Animal Welfare

You adhere to the highest standards of ethical conduct. With respect to animal welfare, you remain in compliance with all legal requirements and, where applicable, implement industry-leading policies and practices related to the ethical treatment of animals.

intive is committed to believing in the humane treatment of animals, including freedom from thirst and starvation, freedom from discomfort, pain, injury and disease, freedom to express normal behavior, and freedom from fear and distress.

Greenhouse gas emissions and responsible use of energy

You seek to minimize emissions of greenhouse gases, including carbon dioxide, resulting directly or indirectly from your activities within the scope adequate to the scale and type of your operations.

You make an effort to procure energy from renewable and clean sources. You try to offset your carbon footprint to compensate for your emissions by funding an equivalent carbon dioxide saving elsewhere.

Waste management and noise emissions

You strive to minimize the generation of all types of waste, including water, raw materials and chemicals (responsible chemical management) associated with your operations.

You ensure proper management of the generated waste, including cooperation with authorized waste recipients. Where applicable, you recycle, re-use, or substitute materials to reduce the impact of waste on the environment.

You determine the levels of noise released by your operations into the environment from various sources and you establish measures to improve noise emissions for both your employees and contractors, as well as for the environment.

Air Quality

You seek to minimize air emissions, especially air emissions of volatile organic chemicals, aerosols, corrosives, particulates, ozone depleting substances, and combustion byproducts generated from operations are to be effectively managed in accordance with local laws, regulations and generally accepted international standards.
