Making IT Work For Over 20 Years

Tenth Edition
Quarterly Magazine

Dear Team,

As we close out another quarter and move steadily toward the end of the year - it feels like the right time to pause for a moment, take stock, and really acknowledge what we've achieved together.

If this quarter (and honestly, this year) had a theme, it would be growth and maturity. Growth in the number of clients we support, the complexity of the work we take on, and the expectations placed on us. Maturity in how we respond, adapt, and show up - especially when things get busy, challenging, or uncomfortable. Every single one of you has played a role in that journey.

We've welcomed a significant number of new clients, and with that came the need for the team to stretch, shift, and sometimes push beyond what felt comfortable. It hasn't always been easy - there were long days, full queues, and moments where it felt like the work just kept coming but what never wavered was the attitude and professionalism our clients know us for. Even when the pressure was on, we showed up with commitment, pride in our work, and a shared determination to get things done properly.

One of the most rewarding things to witness over the last few months has been how naturally teamwork stepped into the spotlight. Helping a colleague without being asked, guiding interns as they find their feet, sharing knowledge across teams, or simply checking in when someone looked overloaded - these moments matter. They're not loud or flashy, but they're the reason we continue to move forward together. Collaboration isn't just a value we talk about; it's something we practise daily.

We've also continued to raise the bar in how we work. Processes have been tightened, standards refined, and small but meaningful improvements made across the board. These steps - whether big or incremental, reflect a collective commitment to doing things better, not because we have to, but because we care about the quality of what we deliver.

And at the heart of it all remains our clients. From more thoughtful communication and faster turnaround times, to meaningful engagement and moments where we've shown genuine appreciation, our focus on client experience continues to define us. We're not just fixing issues - we're building trust, strengthening relationships, and making our clients' lives easier. That's not accidental; it's the result of consistent effort from every part of the team.

So thank you - for the hard work, the resilience, the humour on tough days, and the quiet wins that often go unseen. Thank you for backing one another, for taking ownership, and for caring about the work you do.

As we head into the next quarter, let's carry this momentum forward. Let's keep setting the standard for what excellence looks like - together, consistently, and ideally with a few more laughs and cups of coffee along the way.

Excellence isn't a destination; it's a habit.

Here's to finishing the year not just strong, but exceptional.

FRESH OFF THE PRESS

We're excited to celebrate our team members who earned certifications this quarter. Denelle Naicker and Kimeshan Naidoo both completed their CompTIA N+ and Andre Viljoen achieved his Microsoft AZ-900: Azure Fundamentals.

Racheal Khan earned the Service Excellence Certificate through Mancosa, and Noluthando Zondi completed both her CompTIA A+ and N+. These achievements are more than milestones - they reflect dedication, growth, and the commitment to delivering the best for our clients. At THUSA, learning never stops, and seeing our people upskill is always inspiring.

We're also recognising the top performers on the THUSA gamification leaderboard this quarter. Tilden Moonsamy took first place, while Jodache Munsamy and Barend Binneman shared second, and Denelle Naicker came in third. These badges celebrate curiosity, initiative, and consistent effort - showing that learning can be fun, rewarding, and motivating for everyone. Well done to all our badge winners for setting such a great example.

This year, we're also celebrating an incredible milestone for Gerald Umraw, who marked 10 years with THUSA. Gerald's dedication, experience, and commitment have been a huge part of our journey, and reaching a decade with the team is an achievement worth recognising. Congratulations, Gerald!

On top of these achievements, we're happy to welcome some new faces to the THUSA family. Bongisipho Mazibuko joins as a NOC Technician, Siyabonga Phungula as an IT Technician, Zaeem Khan as a NOC Technician, and Shenice Ramkellawan steps in as our new Junior CSM.

Every milestone, badge, and new team member reminds us that growth at THUSA is a team effort. When our people grow, we all grow - stronger, smarter, and ready for what's next.

I AM THUSA

The best advice Karishma has ever heard is, "Everything always works out right in the end - if it's not right, it's not the end," a comforting reminder to stay patient and trust the journey. If she could meet a historical figure, it would be Leonardo da Vinci, whose ability to combine art, science, and engineering was far ahead of his time and continues to fuel her curiosity. Her humour shows in her favourite dad joke: "Why don't eggs tell jokes? Because they'd crack each other up." And when it comes to comfort food, Karishma could happily enjoy paneer tikka masala with naan for the rest of her life.

The best advice Farai has ever heard is, "Your value doesn't decrease based on people's inability to see it," a reminder to stay confident and grounded no matter the situation. If he could meet any historical figure, it would be Jesus - mainly to finally find out if the water-to-wine miracle really happened. His sense of humour comes through in his favourite dad joke: "Did you hear about the restaurant on the moon? Great food, no atmosphere." And when it comes to food, Farai would be perfectly content eating noodles for the rest of his life.

The best advice Shenice ever heard is from her grandmother, Gonam Naicker: "Be good, do good," a reminder that who you are matters as much as what you do, and that kindness always leads the way. If she could meet a historical figure, it would be Shirdi Sai Baba, whose wisdom and simple messages of compassion inspire her; she'd love to learn how he stayed calm and giving while helping many people. Her humour comes through in her favourite dad joke: "I'm not superstitious, but I am a little stitious." And when it comes to comfort food, Shenice could happily eat any curry, especially beans curry with rice, for the rest of her life.

TEE TIME WITH THUSA

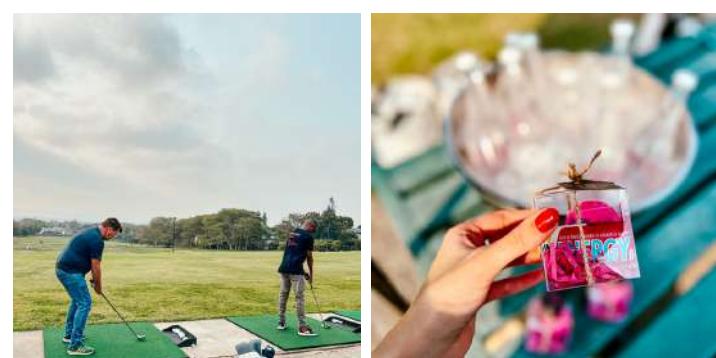

This quarter, we swapped our usual workday pace for something a little different - a relaxed tee time session at the driving range with a couple of our golf-loving clients. It was a great opportunity to spend time together outside the office and enjoy a shared interest in a casual, low-pressure setting.

Our team members showed off some unexpected golfing skills, with a few surprising everyone (including themselves) with solid swings and impressive form.

The TrackMan added an extra layer of fun, giving us real-time stats to compare our heights, swings, and distances. From perfect strikes to questionable swings, the mix made the session all the more fun.

It was a great afternoon spent enjoying good company, plenty of laughs, and a shared love for the game. A big thank you to the clients who joined us - we're already looking forward to the next round.

BOARDROOM MEETS LOCKER ROOM

We closed out the year in style by celebrating our clients at our end-of-year gathering! This year's theme, Boardroom Meets Locker Room, perfectly blended the worlds of business and sport, creating a fun, inspiring, and memorable afternoon.

Our special guest speaker, Andre Barnard, the Sharks' Performance and Culture Coach, shared fascinating insights into teamwork, leadership, and building a high-performance culture - lessons that resonated with everyone in the room.

Guests enjoyed some excellent food and drinks, all while connecting, networking, and reflecting on a successful year together.

The event was our way of expressing gratitude to our clients for their trust and partnership throughout the year. With plenty of laughs, engaging conversations, and shared inspiration, it was the perfect way to celebrate the successes of 2025 and look forward to what's ahead in 2026!

HERITAGE DAY

For Heritage Day, our team came together to celebrate the cultures and traditions that make South Africa so unique. The office was filled with heritage as everyone arrived in their cultural attire - a mix of patterns, fabrics, and styles that reflected the diversity of our team.

We also shared a spread of South African favourites, from savoury classics to sweet treats, giving everyone a chance to enjoy the flavours we grew up with.

HALLOWEEN

This Halloween, the office turned into a mix of spooky and funny as the team arrived in a variety of creative costumes. From light-hearted outfits to classic Halloween characters, everyone brought something different to the day.

The sweets table ended up being a highlight - packed with gummy snakes, vampire teeth, eyeball candies, and plenty of colourful treats. With the cobwebs, pumpkins, and decorations, it added a great touch to the atmosphere and kept everyone coming back for more.

VIRTUAL TEAM BUILD

This quarter, we brought the THUSA team together for a virtual team build centred around general knowledge trivia and some fun “how well do you know your teammates?” challenges. From rapid-fire questions to unexpected personal facts, the session had everyone guessing, laughing, and occasionally second-guessing their own answers.

It was a great reminder of how well we work together - even from behind our screens. We discovered unexpected facts about one another, learned who's secretly a human encyclopedia, and proved once again that the THUSA team spirit thrives no matter where we are.

GAMES NIGHT

Our latest THUSA game night was the perfect mix of friendly chaos and good vibes. With a stack of 30 Seconds cards at the centre of the action, the competition got loud, the clues got creative, and the laughs didn't stop. We squeezed in a few other games along the way, but 30 Seconds definitely stole the show.

Of course, no game night is complete without great snacks - so we enjoyed some drinks and far too much pizza. It was an easygoing evening of connection, teamwork, and pure fun.

WORLD CLEAN UP DAY

This quarter, the THUSA team marked World Clean-Up Day by heading out to the Beachwood Mangroves - a protected natural area that plays a vital role in our coastline's health. With gloves on and bags in hand, we spent the morning walking the trails and riverbanks, gathering as much litter as we could. We were also joined by one of our clients, who brought their team along to support the clean-up, making the effort even more impactful.

What stood out almost immediately was the variety of waste we came across. Alongside the usual bottles, cans, and plastic packaging, we found unexpected items like single shoes, clothing, and even old car parts. It was a clear reminder of how easily everyday waste and sometimes not-so-everyday waste finds its way into our environment.

The clean-up gave us a chance to step away from our usual weekend activities and put our energy into something that has a direct, visible impact. It also offered a moment to appreciate the mangroves themselves: an ecosystem that's often overlooked but incredibly important for local wildlife and coastal protection.

Thank you to everyone who took the time to participate. Your effort helped restore a space that many people and animals depend on, and it was a meaningful way to spend time together as a team while contributing to something bigger than ourselves.
