 NATIONAL DOCTOR'S DAY

Happy National Doctor's Day! But who's taking care of the people who take care of us?

Doctors are celebrated, but the system around them is often broken – from burnout to understaffed hospitals and unsustainable practices. ESG is part of the solution.

1 doctor for every 834 people in India.
WHO recommends
1:1000 sounds fine,
until you see the ground reality.

Doctors are overworked,
underpaid in rural areas,
and hospitals often run
with zero focus on sustainability – energy
waste, medical waste mismanagement, and no
governance on ethical care.

Healthcare = one of India's most polluting, most unequal sectors.

The Environmental Crisis

Hospital generates tons of biomedical waste daily

The Social & Governance Crisis

Rural India still lacks basic care access. And healthcare governance –
pricing, ethics,
patient rights – is often weak.

This isn't just a medical problem.
It's an Environmental,
Social, and Governance
problem.

E — Green hospitals.

S — Doctor wellbeing + rural access.

G — Ethical, transparent care.

ESG isn't a buzzword for corporates only. In healthcare:

E — Environment

Solar-powered hospitals & waste management.

S — Social

Fair doctor working hours and access for underserved areas.

G — Governance

Transparent pricing and accountable governance.

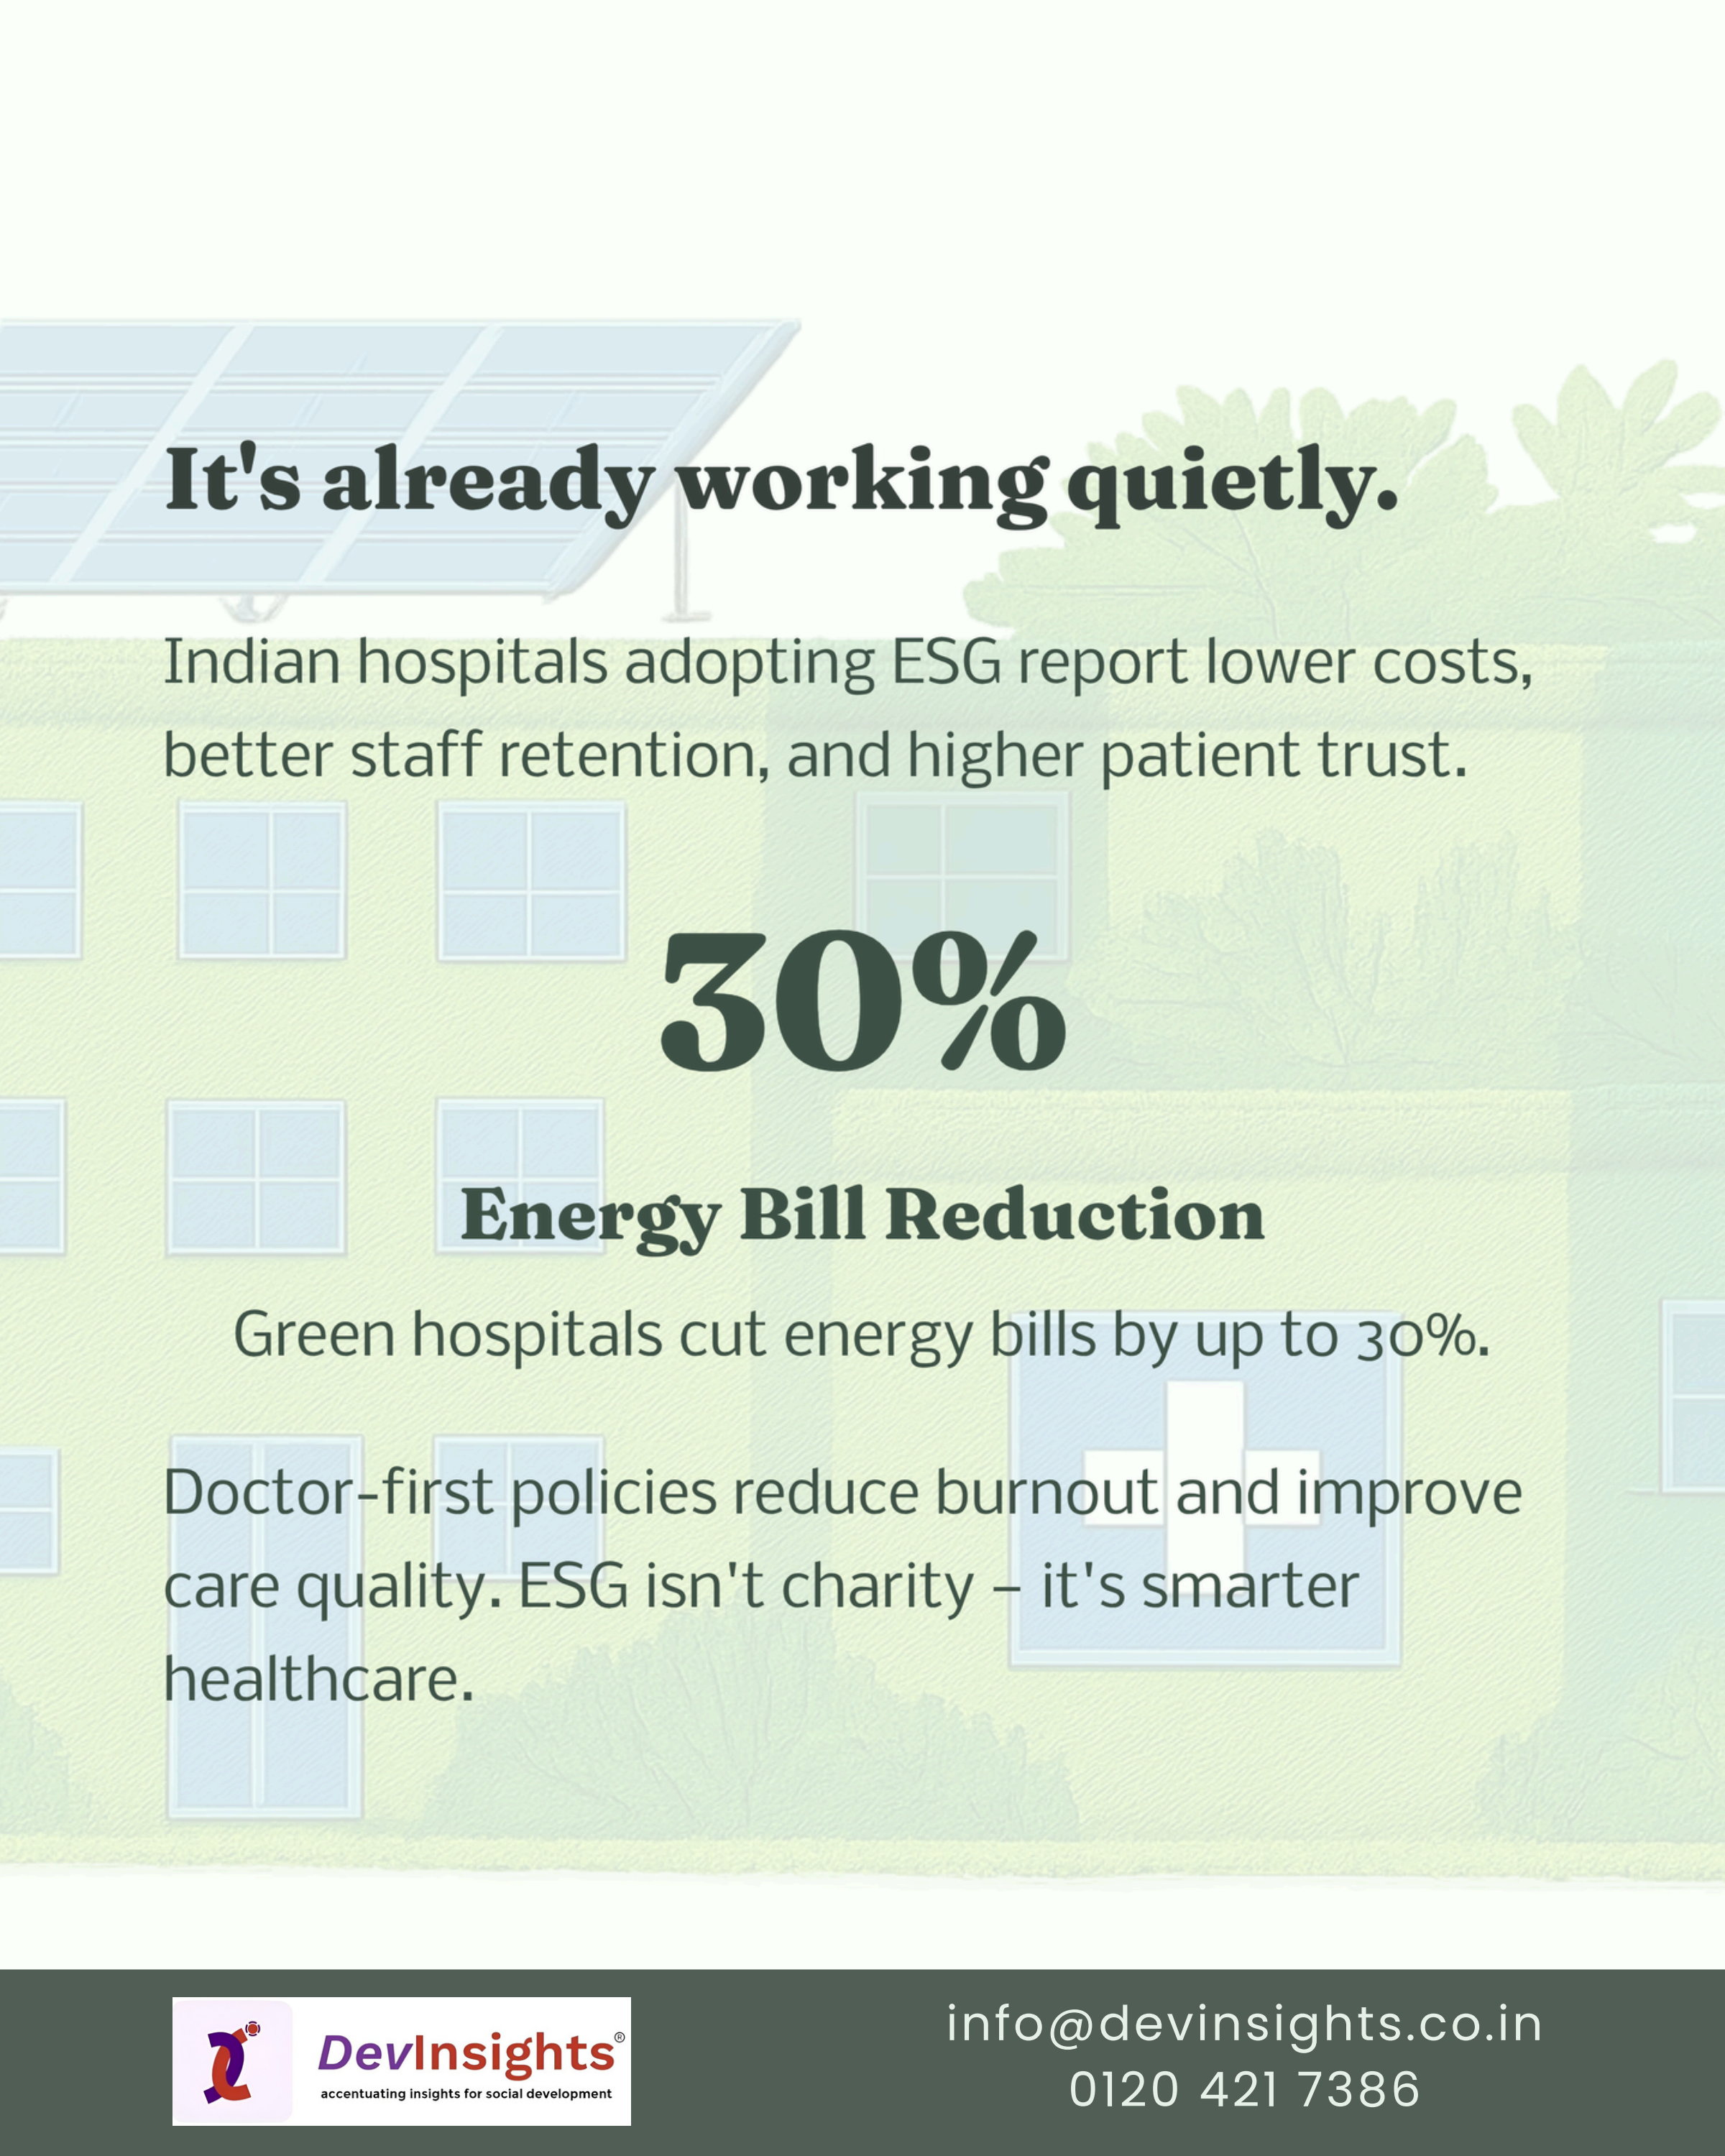

Save this – you'll want to reference it later

It's already working quietly.

Indian hospitals adopting ESG report lower costs, better staff retention, and higher patient trust.

30%

Energy Bill Reduction

Green hospitals cut energy bills by up to 30%.

Doctor-first policies reduce burnout and improve care quality. ESG isn't charity – it's smarter healthcare.
