BY TREKNOMADS

EDITION 9, SEPTEMBER 2025

TREK.TRAVEL. ADVENTURE.

Welcome to the ninth edition of Alemaari Adhyaya By TrekNomads

September was that quiet in-between, where the rains stopped and trekkers switched from raincoats to windbreakers.

The monsoon trails gave us their last bursts of green while the Himalayas began opening their doors again. This month, we did our Western Ghats treks of the season, took corporate teams outdoors, and watched yet another group of Nomads return home with that post-trek glow.

As we step into October, it's that exciting shift the season of summits, sunrises, and snow is here.

Two Years. Two Awards.

One Unstoppable Community

We're thrilled to share that TrekNomads has been honored with the Tripadvisor Travellers' Choice Award for two consecutive years – 2024 and 2025.

This recognition isn't just about accolades; it's a celebration of the vibrant, passionate community that makes every trek memorable. Every review, every shared story, every step you've taken on our trails has helped shape this journey.

From the first-time trekkers testing their limits to seasoned adventurers chasing higher peaks, your trust and enthusiasm are the heart of TrekNomads. This award belongs to you as much as it does to our team.

October is here, the air's cooler, the trails clearer, and the energy is higher than ever. Whether it's a quick weekend climb or a Himalayan expedition, every trek you take now becomes part of this new season of stories.

Footprints of September: Treks and Tales

August had its own mischief. One moment, trekkers walked under bright blue skies, the next they were swallowed in fog thick enough to hide the trail. Rivers swelled overnight, meadows glistened in fresh rain, and flowers peeked out between showers as if playing their own game of hide and seek. For every batch, the mountains revealed a different face sometimes generous with views, sometimes moody, but always unforgettable.

Netravathi, Kuringal & Kudremukha Trek | 3rd-6th Sept 2025

Our all-ladies batch proved that strength doesn't need noise. Over four days, they trekked across three peaks in the Western Ghats each day, bringing new terrain, new laughter, and new lessons in grit. From misty ridgelines to steep forest climbs, the group, a mix of government officials, professionals, and homemakers, showed what happens when determination meets teamwork. Their journey wasn't just about summiting peaks, but about reclaiming time for themselves.

Kodachadri Trek | 13-14 Sept 2025 | NAVI Corporate Group

Corporate by title, but a team of explorers in spirit. The NAVI Technologies group's 4th trek with us to Kodachadri trek was all about disconnecting from screens and reconnecting with the wild. They tackled muddy trails, roaring waterfalls, and mist-draped paths, the kind that make you forget deadlines and remember why fresh air matters.

Uttari Betta Trek | 14 Sept 2025 | IIMB Alumni

What happens when some of the brightest minds decide to trade boardrooms for boulders? You get an Uttari Betta batch full of laughter, strategy, and sunrise views that no case study could prepare them for.

For this alumni group, the trek became a perfect mix of nostalgia, nature, and new memories.

Karadi Kallu Betta Trek | 14 Sept 2025 | CMR University

The CMR students came ready for adventure, and Karadi Kallu delivered. Early climbs, team games, and panoramic ridge views made this trek a memory before the semester could even begin.

Kaurava Kunda + Isha Foundation Visit | 20 Sept 2025 | Corporate Team Outing

This wasn't a regular trek but rather a mindful reset. After climbing the twin hills of Kaurava Kunda, the team spent time at the Isha Foundation, grounding the adrenaline rush in quiet reflection.

A rare combination of sweat, silence, and spiritual calm.

Mardi Himal & Annapurna Base Camp | 20 Sept 2025

Our adventurers, this time a family of 3 successfully completed the Mardi Himal and Annapurna Base Camp trek on 20th September 2025, welcoming the start of Nepal's beautiful autumn season. The trails were alive with vibrant autumn colours, crisp mountain air, and breathtaking views of the Annapurna range, making this trek truly unforgettable.

The season's perfect trekking conditions added an extra layer of magic, making the journey challenging yet immensely rewarding.

A Special Journey of

Corporate Trek to Kodachadri with Navi

Meet Mr Pradeep Balaji, who recently joined a 2-day trek to Kodachadri with his team from Navi. The idea of organising a corporate trek came up when the thought of doing an outing came out; they wanted to experience something beyond the usual corporate routine. This was Pradeep's fourth trek with TrekNomads, and he appreciated the consistent support and guidance provided by our team, especially Hemanth, who helped them plan and prepare for their journey.

While exploring trekking options, they found TrekNomads to be the most reliable, with detailed information shared about distances, challenges, viewpoints, and customisation options. The ability to tailor the trek according to their preferences helped them make well-informed decisions and ensured their satisfaction.

Pradeep highlighted that the excitement remained constant throughout—before, during, and after the trek. The experience offered an opportunity for the team to connect in a different environment, exchange ideas, and share knowledge, making the trek more engaging and lively. Every step on the trail was memorable, with unique stories, directions, and experiences. Our trek leaders, Hemanth and Sagar, with experience in high altitude expeditions, added immense value by sharing their knowledge and insights.

Pradeep also appreciated the quality of our services; the accommodations were comfortable, exceeding expectations for trekking locations, and the food was delightful. Overall, the trek's duration, planning, and execution left everyone thoroughly satisfied. When asked if he would recommend TrekNomads to other companies, he said, "Definitely. The trust we built with the team and the way clients are represented make the experience invaluable."

Looking ahead, he is excited to plan future treks with us, including Kumara Parvatha, Kudremukh, and even higher-altitude treks like Everest Base Camp.

MOUNTAINS TURNING WHITE

Snow Season Has Arrived!

Winter in the Himalayas isn't just a season, it's a mood. The crowds thin out, the skies turn sapphire-clear, and every sunrise feels sharper, more personal.

This is the season when the trails turn quieter, the air turns colder, and the rewards become even deeper.

Here's what the coming winter holds for our Nomads.

KEDARKANTHA – THE CLASSIC WINTER SUMMIT

If there's one trek that defines winter in the Himalayas, it's Kedarkantha. At 12,500 ft, this summit stands as an open invitation to first-timers, families, and seasoned trekkers alike.

What makes it magical is its rhythm: you begin under pine forests draped in snow, cross frozen streams that crackle beneath your boots, and reach a summit that glows golden with the first light of dawn.

For many, Kedarkantha is their first tryst with snow, camping, and the realization that the cold can feel oddly comforting when you're surrounded by good company and starlit silence.

"You never forget your first winter sunrise from Kedarkantha," one of our trekkers said last year.

Lock your Kedarkantha slot today

BRAHMATAL – WHERE REFLECTIONS MEET MOUNTAINS

A journey that feels like poetry in motion, Brahmatal is the kind of winter trek that quietly takes your breath away.

Every bend on this trail opens to a different frame — snow-clad ridges, oak forests heavy with frost, and the mirror-like Brahmatal Lake reflecting Mt. Trishul and Mt. Nanda Ghunti in all their glory. It's not the hardest trek, but it's one of the most rewarding.

Nights here are silent, broken only by the crunch of fresh snow. Mornings are slow, with clouds floating low and peaks glowing pink.

If you're someone who loves photography, solitude, and mountain stillness, Brahmatal is your canvas.

KUARI PASS – THE LORD CURZON TRAIL

Some trails have stories built into them, Kuari Pass is one of them. Once explored by Lord Curzon, this trail gives you sweeping views of some of India's highest peaks — Nanda Devi, Dronagiri, and Kamet.

The trek is not too steep, not too long, but perfectly balanced, ideal for those looking to graduate from beginner treks to something with more depth. You walk through ancient forests, open meadows blanketed in snow, and ridgelines that make you feel like you're walking in the clouds.

What makes Kuari special is the perspective not just of the mountain views, but the sense of scale it gives you.

SANDAKPHU – THE TREK OF FOUR GIANTS

There are few places on Earth where you can see four of the world's five tallest peaks in a single frame.

Sandakphu, straddling the Indo-Nepal border, is one of them.

On clear days, you can spot Everest, Kanchenjunga, Lhotse, and Makalu standing shoulder to shoulder, like a mountain orchestra. The trail itself is surreal, winding through rhododendron forests, tea gardens, and quaint villages where you sip hot chai looking across two countries at once.

Kuduremukh, Kurinjal & Nethravathi Trekking. This was my first trek, and I absolutely enjoyed every moment of it, especially because of the amazing and friendly group we had. A big thank you to each one of you for making this experience so memorable! Thank you, TrekNomads, for organizing such a wonderful trek and making it a grand success!

I was a bit hesitant to join on the second day due to the leg pain I had after Day 1, but thanks to our trek leads Vineet and Sagar for encouraging me to push through, I'm so glad I did! Also, both trek leads handled the situation promptly and efficiently when one of our fellow trekkers got injured.

It turned out to be three fun-filled days surrounded by nature, laughter, and great company. The musical evenings at the resort were awesome, especially with the melodious songs and dance performances by our fellow trekkers. Looking forward to many more such adventures with all of you!

Trek to Kurinjal Peak was really nice and great experience, Treknomads planned it very well with the stay and food and travelling and ensured everything was perfect for the travellers and really want to highlight about the trek guide Manisha Right from the beginning, she made the trek fun-filled and engaging, keeping everyone interactive with her cheerful energy.

The games and the horror stories throughout the midnight added even more fun and excitement. She also explained about the sightseeing places and temples we visited along the way — it was so good to know the history, which made the experience even more meaningful. The way she handled the group dynamics, encouraged us during tough stretches, and created a comfortable atmosphere was truly commendable. It wasn't just about reaching the peak, but enjoying every step of the journey, and Manisha ensured exactly that. Her guidance made the trek truly memorable and special.. Looking forward for more treks and trips with Treknomads in and outside Karnataka.
