

SECURE
ENVIRONMENT
CONSULTANTS

A blue-tinted photograph of two men standing on a metal staircase. The man on the left is bald and wearing a dark polo shirt and trousers, holding a tablet. The man on the right has a beard and is wearing a light-colored polo shirt and trousers, also holding a tablet. They appear to be in a professional discussion. The background shows the structure of the staircase and some industrial elements.

Empowering Protection

With SEC, a team of former Secret Service agents, Homeland Security agents, FBI agents, Green Berets, Navy SEALs and law enforcement officers come together to provide you with realistic recommendations .

Having a security game plan for the inevitable isn't a nice to – it's a need to.

It's no secret organizations are facing unprecedented challenges when it comes to the safety of their staff, students, patients and visitors. While it can seem daunting, having a team of experts with a proven track record can bring peace of mind – and provide solutions.

Since 2013, SEC has brought high-level security assessments to organizations throughout the United States. With new and emerging threats continuing to appear, staying on top of safety plans, policies and trainings is more critical now than ever.

Trust the SEC team to bring our more than 100 years of combined security experience to your organization. Our mission is to empower protection and keep everyone safe. We understand safety and security happen in layers and the threats each organization faces are unique.

Let us help guide you with the best solutions to protect your organization and your people.

Where it all began

As a young man graduating from high school, Jason Russell was unsure of – as so many are – “what he wanted to be when he grew up.” He enrolled in a community college near his hometown of Portage, Michigan and chose a class in criminal justice on a whim.

“Something clicked,” he remembers.

A lot has happened since, including seminal events that changed the course of Jason's life and helped him realize it's his destiny to help safeguard thousands who rely on his firm's expertise for safety and security.

After graduating from Western Michigan University with a degree in criminal justice, Jason began his career with the Lansing Police Department. While there, he enrolled full-time at Michigan State University, earning a master's degree in criminal justice and security management. Jason was eventually offered jobs by both the CIA and the Secret Service. He chose the latter, where he worked eight years and traveled to 20 countries while protecting U.S. presidents, their spouses and personnel.

His life was put in danger more times than he can remember, including in 2005, when a man threw a hand grenade at President George W. Bush, whom Jason was protecting that day in Georgia. It landed 65 feet from him, failing to detonate. It was a few years after leaving the Secret Service, in that fated moment at Sandy Hook, when Jason's life changed.

“My daughter Alaina was the same age as most of the victims then,” Jason recalled.

He started talking with his wife, who at the time was operating several childcare learning centers, and wondered what she was doing for safety and security.

“Even with all my Secret Service experience, I'd never really explored the schools where we were sending our own kids. And that's how SEC came to be.”

Since its inception in 2013, SEC has grown to serve thousands of organizations across the U.S., and in several other countries. Our roots began in the childcare industry, having a passion for protecting children just like the President. As Jason has been called into multiple crisis situations and school shootings across the country, our work has pivoted to support K-12 schools, safeguarding students and teachers with actionable, layered security posture, from site assessments and in-person trainings to ongoing support, emergency response plans and social media monitoring.

Formally known as Secure Education Consultants, we are proud to now work with all environments and industries across the country. Our work continues to evolve and expand, as organizations are facing unprecedented challenges when it comes to the safety of their teams and visitors. While it can seem daunting, having a team of experts with a proven track record can bring peace of mind – and provide solutions. Trust the SEC team to bring our more than 100 years of combined security experience to your organization.

“The safety and well-being of our employees is a key initiative, especially in this volatile job market. We chose to partner with SEC because of their experience and expertise. The SEC team provides exceptional, relevant and clear training on handling a crisis, which equips our employees with skills they can use at work and in their personal lives to stay safe.”

— Matt DeCamp, President + CEO
Flexfab Manufacturing

Who we serve

SEC is committed to helping every organization stay safe. Our roots began in the childcare industry and pivoted quickly to support school districts across the country, who face unprecedented challenges when it comes to the safety of their students, staff and visitors. To date, we are proud to have helped protect millions of American students in all 50 states.

SEC has grown to not only serve schools and childcare facilities, but also a growing number of businesses nationwide and in several other countries. Having worked with organizations large and small, public and private, urban and rural, SEC has built a strong understanding of the complexities they face when it comes to safety and security.

While our capabilities and expertise are unparalleled, we believe staying client-focused has helped build our success. At SEC, we develop highly customized services and emphasize the importance of listening to our clients first. Every organization we serve is unique – their culture, their goals, their people and their resources. We will never compromise the personalized nature of what we do to empower protection.

SEC's Suite of Services

Our approach to safety and security is tailored to each customer we serve – your culture, your people, your budget and your safety concerns. Every organization has its own set of unique threats, whether that be from surrounding neighborhoods, customers, patients, disgruntled employees or family members, environmental or chemical risks, or the unique nature of your industry. SEC develops comprehensive prevention focused safety and security programs for your facilities and organization.

Site Assessments

A comprehensive look at the current safety measures in your organization.

Training Programs

Multi-hazard training to enhance your team's coordination and proficiency.

eSEC Online Membership

Get on-demand access to SEC courses for continued learning.

Social Media & Online Threat Monitoring

Enhance your security and help prevent violence.

Emergency Operation Plans

SEC will work with you to establish a safe and secure workplace.

Security Design Services

SEC can help your building design team with physical security considerations.

Incident Management

SEC can provide around-the-clock support for unpredictable safety and security incidents.

Annual Security Partnerships

Your organization will have access to our team and resources for an entire year.

Behavioral Threat Assessment

Training and implementation support for your behavioral threat assessment teams.

“We are extremely happy with the level of professionalism and expertise of Secure Environment Consultants. Our staff enjoyed the training and now feel more secure and confident about knowing what to do in an emergency.” — Kids R Kids

Schedule your consultation today

— SECprotects.com

info@secprotects.com
616.528.4071

Grand Rapids • Detroit • Austin

As a principal, keeping my students safe is constantly on my mind. Partnering with Jason and the team at Secure Environment Consultants has given me peace of mind, knowing we have the best plan possible. In the world we live in, there is no excuse for not doing everything we can to protect our students, staff and visitors.”

— William Martin, Caledonia High School Principal

SECURE ENVIRONMENT
CONSULTANTS

SECprotects.com