Scalable document review support for law firms and in-house teams

Whether supporting litigation, investigations, regulatory response, or high-volume contract review, legal teams need review support that can scale quickly without compromising quality or control.

We provide experienced review teams that integrate into your workflows, align to your timelines, and support complex review demands across litigation, regulatory, corporate, and cross-border matters.

Flexible delivery, built around your way of working

Review teams are aligned to the operational needs of each matter, whether supporting law firms delivering to clients or in-house teams managing internal demand.

- Embedded into your workflows and reporting lines
- Flexible team structures that evolve as matters change
- Foreign language fluent contract attorneys across 20+ languages
- Delivery aligned to your preferred operating model
- Client-managed or PM supported delivery

You stay in control of the work. We provide the people.

Experienced from the outset

Our reviewers are experienced legal professionals with expertise across privilege analysis, quality control, second-level and advanced review, fact analysis, and complex review workflows.

They apply consistent review standards, identify issues early, and work confidently with sensitive material across high-volume and high-risk matters.

Beyond document decisions, reviewers contribute context and legal judgment that strengthen the overall quality and defensibility of the review.

Reviewers who make a difference

The quality of document review depends on the judgment behind the decisions.

Our reviewers work confidently across complex litigation, investigations, and regulatory matters, helping legal teams maintain consistency, accuracy, and defensible outcomes throughout the review process.

They contribute practical insight, contextual analysis, and legal judgment that strengthen review quality across large-scale and time-sensitive matters.

Supporting review in an AI-enabled world

AI is transforming document review by helping legal teams process large volumes of data more efficiently.

Experienced reviewers remain essential for interpreting outputs, assessing context, validating results, and identifying issues automated tools may miss.

The result is faster review supported by reliable, defensible outcomes.

Scale when it matters most

Review demands can shift quickly. Teams can scale rapidly to support changing matter requirements without disrupting delivery.

Responsive support models allow review teams to mobilize quickly for litigation, investigations, regulatory response, and large-scale contract review matters.

A partnership approach

We take the time to understand each matter and align the right professionals to the operational and legal requirements of the engagement.

Our process includes screening, interviews, vetting, bar verification, background and conflict checks, and careful alignment to each review team.

You're supported by people who understand legal practice because we've worked in it.

Secure by design

We align to your security requirements across both on-site and remote review models.

For on-site engagements, reviewers operate within your environment, keeping data under your control. Where remote review is required, teams work within secure, controlled environments with strict identity and access protocols in place.
