Consilio helps legal departments and law firms design, implement and optimise document management environments that make critical information more secure, accessible and actionable.

We combine deep legal industry expertise with proven implementation, migration, information governance and change management capabilities to align document management technology with business priorities and the way legal teams work.

Consilio partners with NetDocuments, a leading cloud-based DMS and our technology of choice for Document Management System implementations, combining the strength of the NetDocuments platform with Consilio's legal expertise and end-to-end delivery capabilities.

OUR APPROACH

Successful document management requires more than deploying technology. Consilio works with clients to determine how their DMS should be structured, governed and integrated, while managing the transition of critical business information and supporting users through new ways of working.

This end-to-end approach helps ensure the implementation is not only technically successful, but operationally effective.

THE CONSILIO DMS JOURNEY

From initial strategy through ongoing optimisation, Consilio provides the expertise and delivery capability to reduce implementation risk, minimise disruption and help clients realise long-term value from their DMS investment.

WHY WORK WITH CONSILIO?

Consultation first

We start by understanding your business, legal workflows, governance requirements, user challenges and future-state goals, then determine how technology can best support them.

Deep legal and information governance expertise

Our experience spans legal technology, document and email management, information governance, records and retention, data migration, security and compliance, enabling us to bridge legal, IT, risk and operations.

A trusted advisor, not just a reseller

Consilio acts as a strategic partner, helping clients make informed decisions, avoid common pitfalls and align their DMS with broader business priorities. Our value goes beyond selling technology. We help clients implement and optimise it with confidence, clarity and measurable business benefit.

End-to-end delivery

We support the full DMS lifecycle, from discovery and solution design through governance, migration, implementation, integration, testing, training and ongoing optimisation.

Credibility built on real-world experience

Decades of experience supporting legal and corporate clients with complex information challenges give us the perspective to advise strategically, challenge assumptions where needed and guide clients toward proven best practices.

Proven migration and adoption experience

We help clients navigate legacy DMS complexity, data quality, workspace design, metadata, security mapping and phased or large-scale migrations, while embedding change management and user adoption throughout delivery.

Designed around your organisation. Enabled by NetDocuments. Delivered by Consilio.
