

An exclusive community for corporate global mobility and immigration leaders.

Corporate global mobility and immigration leaders ensure talent is able to achieve outsized impact. Mission is a community built specifically for you.

Mission is thoughtfully curated to deliver impact.

Mission exists to support the corporate global mobility and immigration community, creating a space where individual leadership becomes shared strength, and isolated expertise becomes communal wisdom. Mission brings leaders together in authentic dialogue and collective action to build the future of global mobility and immigration.

Real-Time Collaboration.

A community that moves as quickly as you do. When news breaks or crises surface, get actionable insights within hours and strategize with other leaders through a war room.

Actionable Data.

Ongoing benchmarking on visa processing trends including approval rates and RFE rates, plus how peers build their mobility programs. 100% anonymous and confidential.

Strategic Government Relations.

Engage directly with current and former senior government officials including from USCIS, DHS, DOS, and DOL. Build a voice to shape, not react to, the future of immigration.

Events that Matter.

Curated webinars and peer-led spotlights shaped by member priorities. In person: gatherings, dinners, and activations designed for genuine connection — not hotel ballrooms.

Mission is built for you if:

01 You work in corporate global mobility or immigration at a company (corporate practitioners only — no vendors or service providers).

02 You're committed to growing your career and impact in this field, whether you're two years in or twenty.

03 You want real peer connections, not surface-level networking.

Our Advisors.

Emilio Gonzalez — Former Director, USCIS; former Director at the National Security Council.

Mimi Tsankov — Former U.S. Immigration Judge and President, National Association of Immigration Judges.

Michael Valverde — Former Associate Director of Field Operations, USCIS; 28 years at the agency.
