YOU ARE INVITED

You can't escape the implications of what is going on in the series of parables which we have been reading. The two sons invited to work in the vineyard; one says "yes" but doesn't go, the other says "no" but then goes. The tenants in the vineyard who produce only wild grapes. And now today, those invited to experience the vintage, but refuse point blank to attend. Jesus is not holding back on his damning condemnation of those who have preferred their own needs and wants, to the needs and wants of their fellow human beings around them.

We are all guilty at some point of ignoring, rejecting or abandoning the invitation which God offers, thinking that we have no need of his help or his assistance. We can manage quite easily by ourselves and merrily we go on our own way. But eventually the wheels will come adrift, and the car crash will happen and alone, we are forlorn and perhaps a little remorseful. Where did I leave that invitation and why didn't I reply? Is it too late to accept it now? No, not at all, the invitation has no sell by date, but it does perhaps have best used before date, and that is the point of the words addressed to the guest who gets in without a wedding garment.

It is a reminder to us from Jesus that we have a responsibility, just as the son who said "no" but eventually went into the vineyard realised, to become his co-workers, not because we are seeking to earn his favour for our own benefit, but because we have grasped the power and majesty of his example. The invitation is the key which opens the doorway to the kingdom where the power of God's love is manifest in the blessing which is shared by all who live out the call to become a disciple. Let's put on the wedding garment which we all received at our baptism, the symbol of our Christian dignity and let's bring that dignity into the life we live, and share the graces that flow therefrom.

Deacon Anthony

The Diocese is inviting all Catechists to a day at Holy Trinity Newark on Saturday 17th October entitled: Reimagining Catechesis. As a catechist would you love to see more families engaged with parish life and growing in faith? That at the end of sacramental programmes fewer people would 'disappear'. This day led by the team from GIFT (Growing In Faith Together) will share how this is happening in their parishes and it can happen in yours too.
