

Empowering Data Security at Cass Information Systems with Cyera.

At Cass Information Systems, a leading entity in the finance industry, data security is paramount. Under the expert guidance of Sean Mullins, the Chief Information Security Officer (CISO), the company embarked on a transformative journey with Cyera's AI-powered platform to revolutionize their approach to data security.

Once Cyera was integrated, it unveiled significant vulnerabilities previously shrouded in complexity. The platform meticulously scanned file shares and uncovered substantial volumes of unstructured sensitive data including HR records, legal contracts, and even credit card information. A subsequent revelation found that access controls were excessively permissive, granting unnecessary access to contractors among others.

"Implementing the Cyera data governance solution has significantly improved our visibility and control over sensitive data, helping us address compliance gaps, reduce data sprawl, and enforce consistent security policies across the organization."

Cyera's influence extended beyond just revelation; it significantly bolstered compliance efforts with regulations such as GDPR and HIPAA.

The platform allowed Sean and his team to better manage their data risk by offering 100% cloud visibility coverage—a monumental leap from prior limitations.

Moreover, Cyera led to a remarkable rise in both files scanned and sensitive data discovered-over five times more than before implementation-leading to an astounding 10-30% savings in storage space. Additionally, optimizing resources under Cyera's guidance rendered less than 20% cost savings on data protection efforts -a testament to its efficiency.

With these enhancements, Cass Information Systems now enjoys continuous data visibility and real-time insights into their entire environment-empowering them with precision control over their sensitive assets like never before.
