December 2025

Community is Key to Making the Holidays Happy

ProJeCt's strength is rooted in the people of Easton. Time after time, neighbors from across the city—and beyond—step up to ensure that individuals and families facing hardship are not alone. Last month, when a disruption to SNAP benefits created a critical food crisis for many households, the community responded with urgency and compassion—helping ProJeCt meet a 140% increase in clients visiting our food pantry.

This time of year the generosity of our community allows ProJeCt to go above and beyond to make the holidays happier and healthier for the neighbors we serve. Our friends from Revival Fire Ministries in Southside delivered coats for ProJeCt clients and their children this week. Meanwhile, the residents of The Seville Apartments on North 3rd Street concluded a successful food drive to benefit the pantry. ProJeCt Board Secretary Susan Worobec of Unity Bank stopped by the office (on our "Holiday Sweater Day") to present the staff with a donation to the food pantry.

The Barnes and Nobles of Easton ran a successful book drive this month and donated hundreds of new books to ProJeCt and the Easton Area Community Center. Our teaching staff gifted books to our adult learners, and clients selected age-appropriate books for their children. Giving the gift of reading is always in style at our Fowler Literacy Center.

The Early Childhood Center holds a special place in the hearts of Joe and Suzanne Savage. This year they donated a beautiful selection of sturdy "board books" for the toddler room, fun toy foods, and career "dress up" costumes to encourage dramatic play. Thanks for spreading holiday cheer at the ECE!

Acts of generosity like these—along with the many gifts of time, resources, and support we receive throughout the season—are powerful reminders that ProJeCt's impact is truly a community effort. Thank you, Easton, for making the holidays brighter and more joyful for all!
