3. Verification procedures
4. Sanctions and PEP lists screening
5. Compliance Officer
6. Monitoring Transactions
7. Suspicious Transaction Report (STR)

9. Breaches of Anti-Money Laundering/Know-Your Customer Policy

1. Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing

Money laundering is a process by which criminals attempt to conceal the true origin and ownership of the proceeds of their criminal activities. Money laundering enables criminals to maintain control over their illicit proceeds and ultimately to provide legitimate cover for the illegal source of the illicit proceeds. This means that proceeds from criminal activities are converted into assets that gives it an appearance of legitimate money. Money laundering is an international scourge and the failure by the authorities to prevent the laundering of the proceeds of crime will enable criminals to benefit from their illegal activities, thereby making crime a viable proposition.

The Financing of Terrorism is defined as an offence established when a person “by means, directly or indirectly, unlawfully and wilfully, provides or collects funds with the intention that they should be used or in the knowledge that they will be used in full or in part, in order to carry out a terrorist act or activity”. Terrorist financing is a unique form of financial crime. Unlike money laundering which involves money obtained from illicit activities, terrorist financing can be funded from legally obtained funds to be used for terrorist activities.

The three basic stages of money laundering:

- a) Placement: is the physical deposit of criminal proceeds derived from illegal activity i.e. entering the collected cash into the financial circuits (payment in cash, exchange of bills, manual exchange, travelers' checks, casino checks, etc.).
- b) Layering: is the separation of criminal proceeds from their source by creating complex layers of financial transactions designed to disguise the audit trail and provide anonymity i.e. transfer between accounts, drawing of checks, foreign transactions etc.
- c) Integration: is the provision of apparent legitimacy to the proceeds of crime. If the layering process has succeeded, integration places the laundered proceeds back into the economy in such a way that they appear as normal (business) funds or other assets i.e. investing funds in lawful investments (stores, leisure activities, real estate), but also companies of all types, etc.

Offence of Money Laundering as per the AML Act

A person is guilty of money laundering if:

- a) he or she directly or indirectly acquires property from the proceeds of criminal conduct;
- b) knowing or believing that property is or represents the benefit from criminal conduct or being reckless as to whether the property is or represents such benefit, the person, without lawful authority or excuse (the proof of which shall lie on him):
- c) converts, transfers or handles the property, or removes it from the Republic;
- d) conceals or disguises the true nature, source, location, disposition, movement or ownership of the property or any rights with respect to it; or
- e) acquires, possesses or uses the property.

Any person who participates in such conduct as described above is considered to commit the offence of money laundering and shall be liable to be punished accordingly.

The person who commits and is found guilty of money laundering is liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding SCR 5,000,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 15 years or to both; For the same offence a legal person is liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding SCR10,000,000.

2. Board of Directors' Roles and Duties

The Board of Directors is ultimately responsible for ensuring the Company's compliance with the applicable legal and regulatory framework of Seychelles, including the requirements of the AML Act 2020 and related securities laws.

The Board retains ultimate accountability for maintaining an adequate, effective, and sustainable system of internal controls.

3. Verification procedures

One of the international standards for preventing illegal activity is customer due diligence ("CDD"). According to CDD, Equitex Capital Limited establishes its own verification procedures within the standards of anti-money laundering and "Know Your Customer" frameworks.

Identity verification

The following outlines the good industry practice when establishing a business relationship or conducting a significant transaction. These steps are designed to ensure full compliance with the Company's CDD obligations and to provide a robust information base for effective ongoing monitoring of clients and their activities:

- The Company adopts a risk-based and technology-driven approach to the identification and verification of clients. This ensures that all customers, whether natural persons or legal entities, are accurately identified and verified before a business relationship is established and throughout its duration. These practices also support the Company's obligation to conduct effective ongoing monitoring and maintain a reliable customer risk profile.
- Records are stored securely in encrypted digital form and are easily retrievable for inspection by the FSA or other competent authorities. Access to client data is strictly controlled, and the Company ensures full compliance with the Data Protection Act, 2023. An electronic audit trail is maintained for every onboarding and verification activity, documenting timestamps, verification actions, and the personnel involved.
- The Company relies heavily on digital onboarding processes. Accordingly, it utilizes secure electronic Know-Your-Customer (e-KYC) systems to verify customer identity remotely. The process involves the submission of official identification documents, such as a valid passport, national identification card, or driver's license, together with a recent proof of address, which may include a utility bill or bank statement dated within the previous three (3) months. Biometric verification tools, such as facial recognition and liveness detection, are used to confirm that the individual submitting the documents is the genuine document holder. Automated document validation software is employed to detect forgery, tampering, or expired documents.

- As part of its verification procedures, the Company also obtains information on the source of funds used to fund trading accounts and, where appropriate, the client's source of wealth. Where the value or frequency of transactions appears inconsistent with the client's profile, the Company conducts additional verification and may request further explanation or documentation. Clients are required to provide details of the origin of their funds, such as employment income, business proceeds, or investment returns, supported by documentary evidence like bank statements, payslips, or audited financial reports. Third-party payments and deposits from unverified sources are prohibited unless separate due diligence is completed and approved by the Compliance Officer.
- To mitigate exposure to sanctioned or high-risk individuals and entities, the Company screens all clients, beneficial owners, and authorised signatories at onboarding and on an ongoing basis against relevant sanctions lists (UN, EU, UK, and OFAC), FSA circulars, and reputable PEP and adverse media databases. This screening is conducted using automated, real-time systems that update daily. Where a PEP, family member, or close associate is identified, the Company applies enhanced due diligence, including senior management approval and detailed review of the client's source of funds and source of wealth. All screening results, decisions, and supporting documentation are recorded and retained for audit and regulatory inspection.
- To support continued compliance and effectiveness, the Company provides regular AML/CFT training to all employees engaged in client onboarding, verification, and monitoring. The training covers identification procedures, red-flag indicators, suspicious transaction reporting, and updates to regulatory requirements. The Company also performs periodic reviews of its e-KYC vendors and verification systems to ensure they meet industry and regulatory standards.
- In the case of a PEP, the individual that the Company is dealing with should be subject to Enhanced Due Diligence.
- For all prospective Clients, the Company shall obtain the highest-quality identification documents available, including when requested certified translations for any documents not in English. No single form of identification shall be regarded as sufficient to verify the Client's identity. Verification of the Client's residential address is mandatory and shall be treated as an essential component of the identity verification process. For non-face-to-face onboarding, all identity and address verification procedures must be conducted through reliable and independent sources, such as official registries, banks, or licensed verification providers.
- In respect of joint accounts irrespective of whether the surname and/or address of the account holders differ, the identity of all account holders should be verified.
- Where a Client is introduced by a branch or subsidiary of a financial institution located outside Seychelles, provided the identity of the Client has been verified by the introducing branch or subsidiary in line with requirements at least equivalent to those of Seychelles and those identification records are freely and immediately available on request to the reporting entity in Seychelles, it is not necessary for identity to be verified or for the records to be duplicated.

Client identification procedures and Client due diligence measures shall comprise:

i) Proof of Identification

The full names used should be verified by reference to a document obtained from a reputable official source which bears a photograph. A current valid full passport

Clients classified as High Risk shall be subject to Enhanced Due Diligence (EDD) and ongoing monitoring measures, including but not limited to senior management approval, source of funds verification, enhanced transaction monitoring, and more frequent periodic review.

The resulting risk score determines the Client's risk classification, which may include the following categories:

- Low Risk

Where suspicion remains following initial review, the matter is escalated to the Compliance Officer for determination as to whether such transactions are to be reported and treated as suspicious or are to be treated as bona fide. Then, a Suspicious Transaction Report (STR) shall be filed with the competent Financial Intelligence Unit (FIU).
