Tennessee Technical Assistance Network (TN-TAN)

provides school districts, administrators, educators, and families access to free high-quality training, resources, and supports designed to improve outcomes for students with disabilities, ages 3-22. See below for more information about our areas of support.

Intensive Behavior

TRIAD at Vanderbilt University Medical Center provides technical assistance for complex behavior support needs and associated training. Supports include direct instruction for staff on behavior assessment and intervention implementation, as well as ongoing coaching to help students engage within their least restrictive environments.

Autism

TRIAD at Vanderbilt University Medical Center provides training, consultation, and coaching services designed to support educators in their classrooms and develop school and systemwide supports to address needs specific to students with autism spectrum disorder (ASD).

Tennessee Tiered Supports Center assists districts and schools as they build and implement an aligned student support system. The center provides training, coaching, and resources for building an aligned framework for tiered academic and behavioral supports.

Assistive Technology

The Assistive Technology Project (ATP) assists districts and staff in building capacity to provide assistive technology supports for students with disabilities. Supports include strategic action planning, professional development, direct coaching for staff, and access to AT equipment-lending libraries for assessment trials.

Secondary Transition

Transition Tennessee provides a range of services to transition stakeholders to improve in-school and post-school outcomes for transition-aged students (14-22) with disabilities. Supports include tiered technical assistance for in-school transition stakeholders and resources and services specific to educator and family needs.

Family Engagement

The Arc Tennessee partners with schools and caregivers of students with disabilities. Family Engagement provides educator training and technical assistance to schools, integrates family supports into existing school networks and strategic plans, and connects families to available services and family-friendly special education resources in order to ensure a successful school experience.

Learning Objectives

1. Understand and identify critical features of four research-based, preventative classroom management practices: design the physical setting, develop routines, actively supervise students, and teach expectations,
2. Examine tools that can be used to evaluate your use of classroom management practices.
3. Apply new knowledge of classroom management practices during collaborative activities and develop plans to implement practices in the classroom.

What is classroom management?

Classroom management consists of skills and practices necessary to establish and maintain an effective learning environment.

9

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

What does effective classroom management look like?

In the meeting chat, describe what you see and hear in a well-managed classroom.

Design the Physical Setting

© Tennessee Department of Education

13

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Physical Space

An effective learning environment involves organizing space, individuals, and materials to promote student engagement and learning.

14

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Rationale

A thoughtfully designed physical setting:

- enhances academic engagement;
- improves accessibility;
- facilitates appropriate collaboration;
- fosters a sense of community, safety, and belonging; and
- decreases the likelihood of challenging behavior.

15

Critical Features

16

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Examples and Non-examples

Examples	Non-examples
The classroom facilitates the most typical instructional activities.	The classroom layout is inflexible and facilitates one type of instructional activity.
There is space between work and areas where supplies are stored.	Students have opportunities to interact near class supplies that are out of teacher view.
Posted materials support critical content and learning strategies.	The classroom is disorderly, unclean, or visually unappealing.
Materials are orderly and ready for use.	Equipment and materials are damaged or unsafe.

(Archer & Hughes, 2011; Harlacher, 2015; Hunter et al., 2015)

17

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Desk Arrangements

Rows	Teacher-led instruction with occasional cooperative learning.
Clusters	Frequent cooperative learning and some teacher-led instruction.
U-Shape	Class discussions and teacher-led instruction with minimal cooperative learning.

(Sprick, 2009)

High-Traffic Areas

- High-traffic areas should be open and clear from barriers.
- Arrange the room so that students who are moving around the classroom can't distract others.
- Common, high-traffic areas include those places where students:
  - get supplies,
  - sharpen pencils,
  - turn in their homework, and
  - have small group instruction.

(Sprick, 2009, 2013)

22

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Classroom Visuals

- Posted materials should reflect:
  - current instructional goals,
  - rules and expectations, and
  - student progress and achievements.
- Avoid posting unnecessary materials, which may be distracting.

(Sprick, 2009, 2013)

23

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Materials and Organization

- Make sure that materials necessary for a lesson are readily available for teachers and students.
- Keep materials that are not necessary for the lesson organized and stored away.
- Remove unnecessary items that hinder accessibility, distract students, or pose a safety concern.

(Sprick, 2009, 2013)

24

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Implementation Tips

When designing your physical space, think about:

- unique characteristics of the space;
- your most common routines, activities, and tasks;
- desired instructional interactions between students;
- desired social interactions between students;
- how the space might support challenging behavior; and
- how the space can encourage desired behaviors.

Active Supervision

Active supervision involves circulating, scanning, and interacting with students to promote expected behaviors and prevent challenging behaviors.

Move
Scan
Prompt
Anticipate Interact

(Gage et al., 2020; Menzies et al., 2018)

41

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Rationale

Active supervision is an effective and easy-to-implement strategy that can be used in a variety of settings.

Increased desired behavior
Decreased challenging behavior

(Austin et al., 2023; Menzies et al., 2018)

42

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Examples and Non-examples

Examples	Non-examples
Walk around while students work independently.	Walk a predictable route.
Scan the classroom while working with small groups.	Only focus on the group you are working with.
Visit all four quadrants of the classroom.	Sit or stand where you cannot see the entire classroom.
Engage with all students equitably.	Have long talks with a student or group of students.

(Archer & Hughes, 2011; Austin et al., 2023; Hunter et al., 2017)

44

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Implementation Tips

- Be proactive!
- Use data to identify and target locations and times that need improvement.
- Assess students' understanding of classroom expectations.
- Set reminders, using timers, notifications or visuals, to engage in active supervision.
- Use accountability systems to ensure effective supervision.
- Use the “Four Quadrants” supervision method.

Strategy Checkup

- Teachers can use the checklist to:
  - set goals,
  - self-reflect on their teaching practices, and
  - observe and provide feedback to colleagues.
- Administrators can use the checklist while conducting observations.

Teaching Expectations

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

49

Classroom Expectations

Expectations are general guidelines for behavior that apply to all students and many contexts.

General

Brief

Positively Stated

Applied Broadly

Observable

Measurable

Culturally Relevant

(Harlach, 2015, p. 15)

50

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Rationale

- Consistently enforcing well-defined classroom expectations improves student behavior.
- Outcomes include increased:
  - academic engagement,
  - leadership skills,
  - conflict resolution, and
  - structure.

Connecting Expectations and Rules

- Rules are incorporated into a behavior matrix to indicate the criteria for achieving behavior expectations.
- Rules incorporate positive and observable behaviors.
- Rules may vary by setting. Expectations are consistent across settings.

Implementation Tips

- Align classroom expectations with school-wide expectations when possible.
- Collaborate with students and families to develop a classroom expectation matrix that defines expected behaviors in observable and measurable ways.
- Include expectations for regular classroom activities and transitions.
- Create visual reminders, such as posters and charts, that both students and teachers can reference.
- Explicitly teach and model expected behaviors.

(Sprick, 2009; US Department of Education, 2015)

Strategy Checkup

Evaluate your classroom expectations:

- Are there three to five?
- Are they positively stated?
- Do they apply to all students?
- Do they apply to multiple settings?
- Are they connected to observable behaviors?
- Do they consider students' cultural identities?

Strategy Checkup Activity

1. Think about activities that occur regularly in your classroom.
2. In the chat, share an activity that you might include in a classroom expectation matrix and a rule that would apply to all students so they can “Be Safe.”

Be Respectful
Be Responsible
Be Safe

Example:

“Arrival: Place your backpack and personal belongings in your locker.”

Learning Objectives

- Understand and identify critical features of four research-based preventative classroom management practices: pre-correct and prompt behavior, provide opportunities to respond, use flexible learning groups, and provide specific feedback.
- Examine tools that can be used to evaluate your use of classroom management practices.
- Apply new knowledge of classroom management practices during collaborative activities and develop plans to implement practices in the classroom.
