Gratitude

Learning to be grateful is probably one of the earliest lessons we're taught as children. "Say thank you" parents will remind a shy toddler as he or she accepts a lollipop or gift or compliment.

Over the years if it's nurtured and encouraged, that attitude can develop into something that not only prompts us to be courteous and kind towards others, but also foster within us a sense of wonder and appreciation for our own life and the world around us.

If you are truly grateful, you will find God in everything. In his youth, St. Francis of Assisi had every reason to be happy and grateful. The son of a wealthy cloth merchant, he had it all, money, social life, opportunity – until he realized none of it brought him the happiness he desired. So, he left it behind and entered into a life of solidarity with the poor. One of his happiest moments came when he met a leper on the street, let go of his fears, and embraced the man. St. Francis learned that to be happy in this world, you must thank God for all your blessings and share them with the less fortunate. St. Francis made it come true that if the only prayer you said in your life was "Thank you God", you would always be happy.

Many years ago, I visited close friends. John's wife had been diagnosed with pancreatic cancer. When I saw Marge, she looked pale, but said to me, "It's good to see you". We talked for a while, and towards the end of our visit, she said, "I'm so thankful to God for all His blessings – I have a loving husband, three children, and a very happy life." I was so happy to hear her say that, and it made me realize, "All of us should be grateful to God everyday of our lives, and if we are, our lives would always be filled with love, happiness and peace. Marge had a peaceful death and is thanking God for all eternity in heaven.

Be thankful to God for all you have.
