Qatar airways menu

The airline prioritizes high-quality meals blending Middle Eastern and international flavors. On long-haul flights, passengers enjoy up to three main meal options, accompanied by desserts and sides, as well as a pre-dinner drinks service for flights over five hours. Beverages include complimentary water, juices, tea, coffee, and a range of alcoholic options. Economy class typically offers at least two red and two white wine choices, with up to three main meal options available. Most long-haul flights feature a main meal offering followed by a second service meal closer to landing. Qatar Airways offers premium dining experiences with gourmet meals designed by celebrity chefs in business class. Passengers can order from the menu at any time using the airline's "Dine-on-Demand" service. The menu often includes multiple courses and wine pairings, and passengers have access to a selection of premium snacks and beverages throughout their flight. Qatar Airways serves alcoholic beverages, including wine, beer, and spirits, on its flights, but may not serve them on certain routes or during specific times due to local laws and customs. All meals served on Qatar Airways flights are halal, meaning they adhere to Islamic dietary laws. The airline also offers vegetarian, vegan, lacto-ovo vegetarian, raw vegetable options, and special dietary meals upon request. Business class passengers have access to a wider range of premium snacks and beverages, including hot and cold drinks, sweet and savory snacks, and in-flight meals. Passengers can request special meals for medical or religious reasons, as well as vegetarian and children's meals, by contacting Qatar Airways directly. Passengers can pre-order their meal up to 24 hours before their flight using the airline's online system. They can also make changes to their pre-ordered meal within the same time frame. Special meals available on Qatar Airways include international and local dishes, as well as options for infants and kids. The food served on Qatar Airways flights is halal, and there are options for other special diets like vegetarian and gluten-free. Passengers with dietary requirements can request these options while making their booking or by contacting the airline directly. You can request special meals for infants, including pureed foods and formula, when booking your flight or by contacting Qatar Airways' customer service in advance. For toddlers and young children, the airline offers kid-friendly meals like mac and cheese, chicken nuggets, and pizza that are not only tasty but also nutritious. It's a good idea to bring your own baby food and formula though, as the airline's supply is limited. Additionally, you're allowed to bring a small bag of essentials like diapers and wipes on board with your carry-on baggage. In Economy Class, passengers flying out of Doha get to choose from two hot meal options for lunch or dinner, plus a hot breakfast on morning flights. The menu typically includes a starter, main course, and dessert, with vegetarian and special dietary options available upon request. On shorter flights, you might get lighter meals like sandwiches or salads instead. Qatar Airways also offers a variety of snacks and drinks, including sweet treats and nuts. Plus, their "Eat When You Want" service lets you order from the menu at any time during your flight, so you can grab a snack or meal whenever you feel hungry.
