2 Real Estate Investment & Research

The goal of financial feasibility analysis is to determine whether the project is financially viable and sustainable in the long run.

There are several key factors that are typically considered when assessing the financial feasibility of a project or investment.

 Capital requirements
The amount of capital required to initiate and sustain the project over time.

 Revenue potential
The expected revenue that the project is expected to generate over time.

 Cost structure
The costs associated with operating and maintaining the project over time.

 Cash flow projections
The expected cash inflows and outflows associated with the project over time.

 Return on investment
The expected rate of return on the investment over time.

 Risk assessment
The identification and analysis of potential risks that could impact the financial viability of the project.
