AIRFLOW CASE STUDY: ORGANIC EGG PRODUCER

PROBLEM

A large egg farming operation was using traditional stretch film to secure their egg pallets. However, they encountered issues with egg spoilage and carton damage due to insufficient air flow, which slowed down the drying and cooling process after the eggs were washed.

SOLUTION

AIRFLOW vented stretch film team worked on site to properly match the correct film with their machine specs.

RESULT

- Immediate improvement in air circulation & moisture release
- Improved and maintained consistent chill temperature during transport.
- Reduction of carton damage and failure.
- Reduction in damage claims.
