September 23, 2026

To Our Valued Customers,

Ongoing instability in the Middle East continues to put pressure on the global polyethylene supply chain. Rising energy costs, production constraints, and higher freight expenses have contributed to increased costs for raw materials and finished products.

Following the September polyethylene resin increases announced by our suppliers, these additional costs have made a price adjustment necessary. K Pack will increase pricing by 6% on all stretch film products for orders received on or after October 1, 2026.

Orders placed before the effective date must be scheduled for immediate shipment. Acceptance will depend on available inventory, resin supply, and production capacity. We may limit order quantities based on these conditions, and all orders remain subject to approval.

We understand that these ongoing conditions present challenges and uncertainty. We appreciate your continued partnership and value your feedback as we navigate this situation together. Our team remains committed to supporting your business, and your sales representative is available to discuss any questions or specific needs.

We sincerely appreciate your continued trust and partnership.

Sincerely,

Sec Nhin Ho
Executive Vice President