

Tracy Murinik bio

Tracy Murinik is an independent art writer, commentator, editor, educator and curator based in Johannesburg. She has written and published extensively on contemporary art from South Africa and the continent, in books, journals, newspapers, and for film; and edits across a broad spectrum of other academic, creative and corporate subjects and disciplines, including publications for major art museums, collections, thinktanks, and publishers.