FRATELLO

Welcome to the 2026 edition of the Toronto Timepiece Show at the stunning Meridian Arts Centre!

It's hard to believe how much the show has grown since we held our very first event in September 2024. What started as an idea has continued to evolve, and this year we're incredibly excited to welcome nearly 100 exhibitors from across Canada and around the world. We're also expecting another fantastic turnout of watch enthusiasts, collectors, industry professionals, and curious newcomers throughout the weekend.

This year, the show spans four exhibition areas throughout the Meridian Arts Centre.

You'll find brands throughout both the lower and upper lobbies, and for the first time, we've completely filled the Lower Gallery, where approximately 20 additional brands will be exhibiting.

We're also very excited to introduce something new this year: the Artisanal Lounge, located immediately off the main entrance. This intimate space brings together five exceptional artisanal brands whose creations really need to be seen in person. I think you'll find something quite special there.

On Saturday, September 26th, we'll also be hosting four live presentations in the Lyric Theatre. These presentations are free to attend, and I strongly encourage you to take some time to join one or two. Our guests and panelists bring an incredible depth of knowledge and experience to the horology community, and I'm very grateful that they're willing to share their stories, insights, and expertise with all of us.

Most importantly, take your time and explore the entire show. There are so many wonderful brands, watches, makers, collectors, and people to discover. Some of the best conversations and discoveries happen when you simply take a little time to wander, look around, and strike up a conversation.

This year, we've also changed our ticket structure to offer a full weekend pass, giving you the freedom to come back throughout the weekend and enjoy the show at your own pace. Our goal has always been to create an atmosphere that feels welcoming, relaxed, and approachable, and we hope the new format gives you even more opportunity to enjoy it.

To everyone who has joined us at previous shows, thank you. Your continued support, enthusiasm, and participation mean a great deal to me personally, and they mean just as much to all of the brands who make the show possible.

And if this is your first Timepiece Show Series experience, welcome! We're very happy to have you here, and I hope you leave with some great memories, a few new favourites, and perhaps some new friends along the way.

Finally, if we happen to cross paths on the show floor this weekend, please come over and say hello. I'd genuinely love to meet you and hear what brought you to the show. Enjoy the weekend, and welcome to the Toronto Timepiece Show!

Warmest regards,

Founder

This passionate creative with a love for rare and precious stones has joined forces with the crème de la crème of Swiss craftsmanship to bring a series of horological wonders to life. Between Geneva and Montreal, Alexandre has invented his own fabulous genre of watchmaking that has led to his being shortlisted 3 times at the Grand Prix de l'Horlogerie de Genève. The Beauregard universe unfolds an aesthetic that elevates technical perfection to artistry. A mastery that is demonstrated rather than proclaimed, a celebration of color where the human hand emerges as the quintessential tool of creation. With his highly exclusive series, Beauregard invites watch and Jewellery enthusiasts to discover a world where time is measured in precious stones and artisanship reigns supreme.

BRADLEY TAYLOR

Bradley Taylor is an artisanal watchmaker in North Vancouver, British Columbia, producing watches almost entirely in-house from a small workshop filled with both antique and modern machinery. Swiss-trained in Le Locle, he machines, finishes, and assembles his own components, and cuts his guilloché dials on a 120-year-old rose engine he restored by hand. His third watch, the Ardea, named for the herons that hunt outside his window, is the product of a decade in the craft and his first with an in-house movement: a retrograde seconds display of his own engineering, a solid gold gear train, and applied numerals machined from solid platinum. His workshop produces approximately 5-8 pieces per year.

GRÖNEFELD

Bart and Tim Grönefeld, The Horological Brothers, are the third generation of watchmakers in the Grönefeld family, whose watchmaking tradition began in 1912. Their shared passion, complementary skills and pursuit of perfection come together in timepieces that unite beauty, craftsmanship and mechanical ingenuity. The 1941 Quadrivium embodies this spirit, bringing together four remarkable complications: a 7.5-second remontoire, one-minute flying tourbillon, central jumping seconds and power reserve indicator. Conceived and crafted with passion and precision, it is a celebration of the Grönefeld family's enduring love for exceptional watchmaking.

J.N. SHAPIRO

California-based J.N. Shapiro started as a passion project and has grown into a pillar of modern American watchmaking. Founded by Josh Shapiro, a former school principal and U.S. History teacher, he began by making traditional engine-turned dials for other watchmakers in his garage after school. In 2018, he launched the Infinity Series, which featured highly complex, engine-turned dials mixing traditional and exotic materials.

The intricate, customizable Resurgence has become the brand's pièce de résistance: the first fully U.S.-made watch in generations. It is the culmination of a dream that began from the humblest of beginnings. J.N. Shapiro watches are meant to inspire individuals to pursue perfection, and to enjoy both the journey and the destination.

DOUSSOT

Why Doussot Watches?

Industrial designer Laurent Doussot created the brand to translate his design language into watchmaking, developing sculptural forms and custom components rather than off-the-shelf parts.

Why ONAMI?

ONAMI means "big wave" in Japanese. A life spent close to the ocean—surfing, diving, sailing—inspired a watch reflecting the sea's energy and texture.

Why now?

After years designing custom folding knives and experimenting with materials and finishes, the time felt right to bring that approach to watches.

MURAKAMI PIRATE

The trademark is based on the family crest of the Murakami Suigun, maritime warriors of 15th century feudal Japan, and authenticates his leather creations.

His battleship design studio with humidor vault doubles as a showcase for his leathercraft and a hub for private events aimed to build an experience driven community by connecting like-minded groups, companies and individuals.

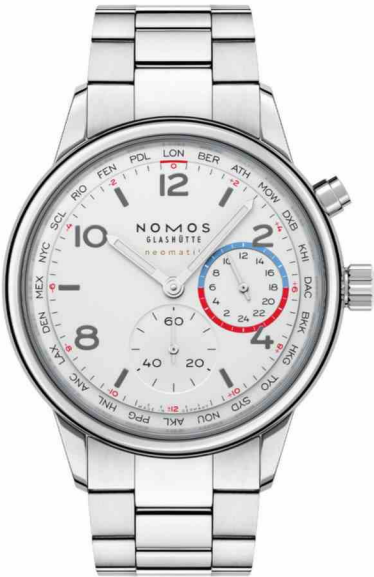

MÜHLE-GLASHÜTTE

Are they pieces of jewelry, collector's items, or works of craftsmanship? A Glashütte watch can inspire in many ways. At Mühle-Glashütte, we see them as precise timekeeping instruments. This stems from the nearly 160-year tradition that our family has lived and worked within in Glashütte.

Robert Mühle laid the foundation for this in 1869. He produced high-precision measuring instruments for the watch industry. Our family business took on its current focus in 1994: the production of marine chronometers and wristwatches that are as precise as they are easy to read. Today, Thilo Mühle is responsible for their high quality. Since 2024, he has been supported in this by his children, Fanny and Dustin, the sixth generation of the family business. NOMOS

Designed for life across time zones, Club Sport neomatik Worldtimer from NOMOS Glashütte has enjoyed significant success since its introduction last year. In late February, it received the iF Design Award 2026 for outstanding product design. This timepiece is now joining the NOMOS collection with a white silver-plated dial that lends it a calm and focused presence. White is the classic dial colour, still the most popular by far –and with good reason. Club Worldtimer is equipped with 24 time zones, moving from one to the next with a single click of the pusher at 2 o’clock. Despite the complex display, the time remains easy to read, while a 24-hour display subdial tracks a second time zone of the wearer’s choice. We believe an honest watch is the foundation of a good relationship. By focusing on what matters, we make professional-grade gear accessible to anyone with a job to do.

We are inspired by the Standard Issue gear of our grandfathers—the stuff that was built to work, to last and without ego. Every Redwood is an invitation to disconnect from the noise and reconnect with the world outside.

SUNREX

After decades of crafting watches for other brands, we decided it was time to create something of our own—something cool, practical, and rooted in experience. Sunrex was born from both inspiration and frustration with a market dominated by either disposable mass-produced watches or overpriced luxury pieces. We saw an opportunity to create timepieces that blend vintage charm with modern reliability—watches you'd reach for every day, not just on special occasions. Our designs invite you to slow down, reminisce, and reconnect with a time when things were simpler. Sunrex watches are built to last, keeping perfect time without the need for winding, charging, or battery changes. They look great, feel great, and won't break the bank.

TIMELESS

Designed in Vevey, Switzerland, the "Timeless" watch synthesizes the future seen from the past, and the past seen from the future. From the industrial revolution to the rationalisation of the early 20th century, through to particle colliders and the machinery of the future. This timepiece plays with curves, textures and depth with powerful shapes and subtle details, with simplicity and complexity. Our source of inspiration? The Swiss industrial heritage that has made Switzerland's industrial heritage that has made it famous and shaped its pioneering image. Old locomotives, heavy machinery, industrial tools or even turbines of dams with an emblematic cylindrical shape ... so many achievements that have fed our imagination and guided our aesthetic choices to create this watch.

WORDEN

Worden Watch is a Canadian watch studio founded by industrial designer Tyler Worden. Each release begins with a theme: an idea, feeling, experience, or tension worth giving form to. That theme guides every creative decision, including colour, material, and details, giving each watch a distinct character. The result is a wrist-sized sculpture shaped by the idea behind it. Together, these releases form an evolving body of work that approaches timekeeping as an artistic medium.

WREN

Wren is what happens when a critic stops complaining and builds the thing himself. Craig Karger spent twelve years as a litigation attorney and a decade reviewing other people's watches for Wrist Enthusiast before finally making his own in 2024. It sold out. So did everything that followed. Wren is small, independent, Swiss made, and designed in New York City. Every Wren so far is a 200-meter dive watch, powered by a movement any watchmaker can service, with a bracelet and strap included. So far.

Distinctive, thoughtfully made, and accessibly priced, Xeric watches make time look anything but ordinary.
