Ulla Popken is a German clothing retailer specializing in plus-size women's clothing, with over 320 stores across Europe and the US. The company was founded by Johann Popken in 1880 and has since grown through multiple generations of family ownership. Today, Ulla Popken operates under the umbrella of the Popken Fashion Group, which includes four brands: Ulla Popken, Gina Laura, JP1880, and Studio Untold. The company's history dates back to its early days as a textile company in Hamelin, Germany, where Johann Popken founded the business. After Karl, his son, took over operations, Friedrich and Ulla Popken joined the company in 1968 and expanded it into specialty maternity shops. In the US, the company launched its first store in 2000 and later created an online platform. For accurate body measurements while shopping or sewing, a reliable tape measure is essential. The article suggests using a measuring tape set with clear markings in both inches and centimeters to ensure accurate results. Additionally, for those without access to a ruler or tape measure, a standard credit card can be used as a makeshift measuring tool by marking the length and width of the card against a reference point.
