The License is effective for the subscription term set forth in your Transaction Documents and each subsequent renewal term unless terminated according to this Agreement. If no Subscription Term is specified, the default Subscription Term is 6 months from the date of purchase. Your subscription renewal constitutes acceptance of and agreement to the then-current version of the Combo Cleaner License Agreement. We or our authorized partner may charge your credit or debit card account for all amounts you owe related to your purchase, including any subscription fees. You agree to notify us immediately if there's a change in your card account number or expiration date or other payment information. For credit and debit cards, we can update such info with updates received directly or indirectly from your card issuer and the relevant card network, and we might use this updated info to charge you for any amounts you owe. Our service has automatic renewal, which means your paid subscription will automatically renew unless you cancel it first. You agree that you allow us or our partner to charge your card on file within 30 days of your subscription expiration date at the price in effect at that time. If you want more info or to cancel, log onto your My Account page or contact Customer Support. Before your Subscription Term expires, we'll send a notice to your email address with details about the upcoming renewal. We can also automatically renew your subscription with new software and services if they're reasonably comparable to what you have now, at no more than the original price of those new services. You can turn off automatic renewal by accessing your account page or contacting Customer Support anytime after buying a subscription. If you don't turn off auto-renewal before 30 days are left on your Subscription Term, your subscription will automatically continue for the Renewal Term under our agreement in effect at that time unless it's canceled by you. If not cancelled, premium features and services might be discontinued. Cancelling your subscription or terminating this Agreement won't give you a retroactive refund or pro-rate fees paid based on cancellation date. Cancelling will stop future recurring fees, and you'll have access to the Software and Services until the end of the then-current Subscription Term. Subscriptions that auto-renew are eligible for 100% refunds within 30 days from your initial purchase or Auto-Renewal. To get a refund, contact Combo Cleaner Customer Support Service and initiate a request.
